Flying Fingers hit the keys as Jared Tuck, grade 8 student entertains us with "Chocolate Eaters' Blues" and "Blue Monk." Jared participated in the Christmas Talent Show.

Seniors' Dinner

Ryan Vigneau and two volunteers serve smiles at this year's dinner that was held in December. The dinner is a fund raiser for the graduating class.

Yum Yum food in my tum. Cassie Meier, in grade eleven, enjoys a nutritious one pot meal.

Interplanetary Pilgrimage

Student Life

An interplanetary pilgrimage of immense size and tremendous length began with a bang as we search the unknown.

Our journey through life, takes us into uncharted territories. We never know what's next, but we continue on and so our exploration and conquest of the universe begins...

Warriors' Rain Dance
When it rains, it pours... the senior girls' volleyball team beats Vanier and the crowd loves it. Led by the FH Collins' cheerleaders, the fans cheer the team on.

Gingerbread Magic
Sandi Porter, a grade twelve student, builds a gingerbread house at the teen parent centre. The centre hosts an open house each December.

"Rats, I forgot my lunch." Quinn Landreth and Laura Pyke dissect a rat in their experiential science class at the college in the spring.

It is fun to get out of your own skin and into somebody else's.

IT'S NOT REALLY ME!

Dr. Strange Love To The Rescue

Dr. Sarah Macklon, grade ten, rescues Little Red Riding Hood, Karen White, grade twelve. These were two of the costumed aliens roaming the halls.

Moon's Angels

Charlie's Angels have nothing on (1) Justine Alton, Carly Roche, and Jocelyn Plemel. Who do you want to come to your rescue?

Lunch at FH Collins

sometimes has some added nutrition. Spider woman, Sofie Fortin helps James Babcock look for his missing thumb.

Wicked Warrior

Eric Martinson will bust through any opposition. A win will be another feather in his hat.

Going On A Leopard Hunt

Berdina Hager leads her baby leopard.

Devil May Care

With her pitch fork in hand, Ande Fozard invites space voyagers to warm up in hell.

Making a Nutritious

Intergalactic Stew. We have (left front) Joan Acklack and Jennifer Glada preparing healthy food for healthy moms and babes.

Alien Animal

Emmelia Warren gnaws her way into the realm of rodents.

Motivating The Crew

Mission Leader Chris McNeill threatens potential crew members with a rubber chicken.

SWEET TREATS

Vanessa Garcia decorates cookies with special hieroglyphics to send secret messages to those who ingest them.

BRAINS AND GUTS

Andrew Buchan and Rod Binnie, grade 11, use brains and guts to prepare lunch. (That's their own brains and alien guts!)

TWIN TERRESTRIALS

Two Annas (Starks-Jacob and Krangle-Long) have disguised themselves as white-headed twins. They plan to infiltrate an enemy spaceship.

MONSTER MASH

Jen Mumert and Diedra Etzel, grade 12, whip up a batch of flavoured mashed monster.

CERTIFIED CULINARY CADETS

(l) Kirsten Hulstein, Jen Mumert, Jamie Babcock, and Tania McKay show their credentials to make food fit for aliens.

MARTIAN MOUTHPIECES

Some members of the Yukon Honour Band, Erin Neufeld, Ceilidhe Dabbs, and Boyd Benjamin, try out new mouthpieces to suck in the Martian atmosphere.

SAXY SUCKING

Three black and white females of the human species suck vibes and blow air to show their talent. The aspiring voyagers are Amy Strachan, Sofie Fortin, and Sarah McCullough.

GO FINGERS GO

Paddy Ernst concentrates on playing fast enough to keep demons dancing.

PLUGGED IN-

to the stratosphere. Wesley Kemble sends his sound to galaxies far away and listens for a response from other planets.

SOUND SEDUCTION

The Whitehorse Youth Honour Band, a group of white-chested beings, use their noise makers to soothe the extraterrestrial civil servants at Christmas.

Here are some males and females who are extreme examples of their species – both earthlings and aliens.

HOT & SIZZLING

READY FOR ADVENTURE

Lisa Corcoran, grade 12, awaits assignment for a mission to explore outer space at the Seniors' Dinner.

SONIC STRENGTH

Kate Bradshaw demonstrates that she has the power to perform planetary pushups.

THREE HEADED CREATURE

An interplanetary force struck three hot chicks (Larina Debrenceni, Emily Krangle-Long, and Deana Campbell, grade 12) and created this three headed being of a new species – the Beasty Babe.

WAITING FOR A MESSAGE

Amy Strachan, grade 12 wears headphones to receive a message from space to tell her and her friends Wendy Adams, Sarah McCullough and Grace Randhawa where the party is.

TRANSFORMATION

David Stehelin and Hugh McAlpine got caught in a time warp which transformed them into gender confused blondies.

CLONING GONE AWRY

Father and son, Ernie and Stephen Swerhun prepare a presentation on genetic engineering. Is Steven the evidence of success or failure?

HOT SUDS

Neil Macdonald, Colin Schwindt, and Sam Oettli seem happy to have been selected as "hot guys". What would their mothers say?

DOLLS OR DORKS?

Ian Smith plays Ken and Robbie Babcock plays Barbie as they lip sync to Barbie Girl by Aqua.

PICK ME! PICK ME!

Lionel Rondeau, Nicholas O'Neil, Steven Leschert, and Greg Stewart all try to be selected to date the alien while Ryan Carveth and Jared Tuck gag at the thought.

Boot Scootin' Boogie

Ryan Vigneau and Jake Cabott learn how to line dance after the dessert was served at the Grads' Seniors' Dinner. About two hundred seniors attended at the Elks Lodge.

No Dishpan Hands

for Brendan Preston as he looks away while Francis Landreth, immersed in dish soap, cleans up the dishes. Craig Church and Sam Oettli are part of the clean-up crew.

The Smiles Capture the Day,

especially for Rachel Carter, Deana Campbell, Chris "Bucky" McNeill (Grad Advisor), Sam Oettli, Larina Debreceni, and Andria Sherstone who take a break from serving.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers

Things Go Better With Coke

especially at the end of a long night. Kelly Rittenger, Rachel Hease, and Stephanie Cobbold are all smiles. The night is finished and they can go home and sleep but not before a Coke jolt.

Dishing It Out!

Bucky McNeill and his associates dish out the goods to the servers. Maciej Stetkiewicz concentrates fully on his order.

ALWAYS LOADS OF FUN!

Seniors' Dinner: A Big Success

Praying that it all works out are (l) Amy Smith, Deana Campbell, Liz Boychuk, and Grace Randhawa at the Seniors' Dinner.

Exchange student Vanessa Garcia takes orders from the seniors in hopes of pleasing their palette.

Sometimes the seniors look up to the graduates, especially when dessert is at stake.

Ryan Vigneau has a ball dancing after dessert. He is practicing up for the prom.

No Hat Check Girls Here

Manning the coat check here we have Leif Verhees, D'Arcy Holt, Josh Sauve-Meuleman, and John Hawthorne await the rush for coats.

Guy Gawking

is sometimes disappointing. (l) Rachel Carter, Tamara Olsen, and Liz Boychuk watch the dance floor for prospective partners.

A Lesson in Dance

Amy Strachan takes some time out from working at the Seniors' Dinner for a relaxing trip around the dance floor.

Some of the people involved in Amber Ursich's trip to the Italian battlefields of WWII. Ursich, eight other youths and 50 veterans were involved.

Rachel Jensen, grade 12, gets ready to leave Whitehorse on the spring '99 Experiential Science trip. This month-long trip includes BC and Alberta.

Larina Debrececi takes a short break on route in her bunk. Larina was one of the students on the recent trip to Italy, France, and England.

Pompeii: (l) Jacklyn Stockstill, Johannes Menzel, Lindsay Smith, Larina Debrececi, Neil Macdonald, Blair Rawlings, James MacDonald, Kory St. Germaine, and Mme. Henderson.

Amber Ursich, warrant officer 1st Class, has her picture taken with Gordie Bannerman of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

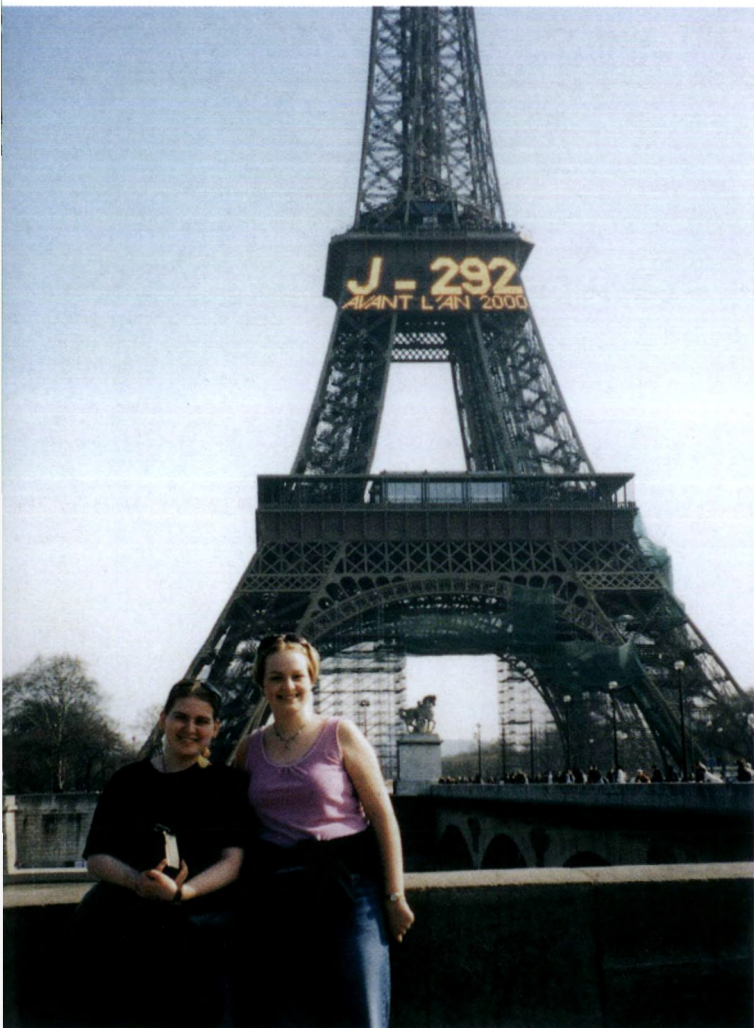

"The Bear And I", a new production starring The Bear and Jacklyn Stocksill. The play opened in London in March '99.

Experiential Science students are introduced to the art of scuba diving during their trip to White Cliff Park in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Alien Scuber, Wendy Adams, aka The Cabbage Patch Kid, prepares for her subterrestrial adventure.

Sarah McCullough and Wendy Adams pose in front of the Eiffel Tower. 14 students, accompanied by Mme. Henderson, went on the tour.

Posing near Jerusalem Emily Krangle-Long says, "Visiting Israel on the Holocaust & Hope trip was one of my most inspiring learning experiences."

Note the emotions shown by Jesse Larsen, Cameron Young, Ryan Sylvestre, Andrew Fyfe, Durand Cornett and Norman Tsiga-Bradford.

Climbers on the wall. Craig Church, Claudia Korner, Kelsey Elliot, and Stephanie Cobbold are learning the skills needed to scale the heights.

Okay, let's show we care and make this team win. Anne Lewis and Jessica Srurby (grade 9) take the lead and cheer the girls' volleyball team to victory.

Quinn Landreth and Bob Sharp grapple with the concept of force and velocity. How much force does it take to move the immovable?

Junior Girls relax between games with their coaches Frank Davidson (with the short guy at the back) and Kirsti Hartley, the sophisticated one, also at the back.

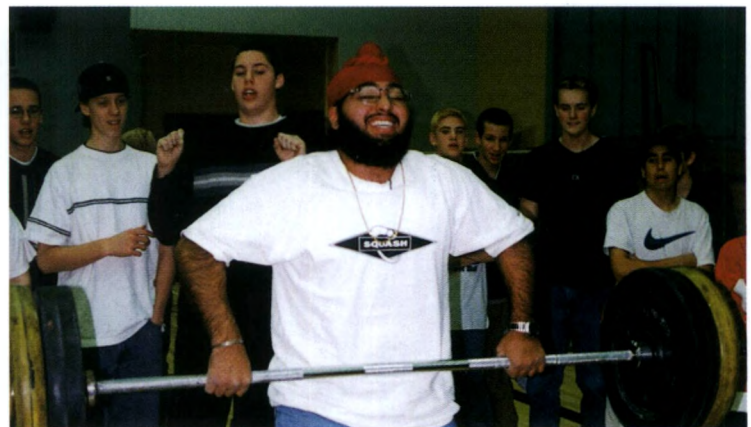

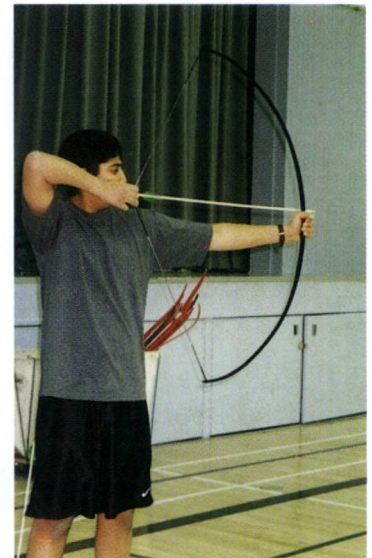

Games are too exciting for coaches, spacey Dan Bisson, and sleepy Bruce Thomson. Steven Leschert, Daniel Pugh and Daniel Sessford watch.

Ms Eistetter shows the secret handshake with Carly, Jessica, Courtney, Tamara, Erin, Rachel, Caley and Hayley.

Ready, Aim and Fire is what grade 11 student Ziad Sahid does in early morning PE.

Jake Cabott and Jack Talsma goofin' around in the hall with their favorite toy. Jake is a forward and Jack a guard on the Warriors Senior team.

Helping Bhupender Aulakh lift are D'Arcy Holt, Jimmy Gattie, Dino Rudniski, Alex MacPhee and Tam Duong.

Experienced Team

The Experiential Science '99 trip combined with an Earth Quest class from the planet Vernon. All of the beings turned out to be compatible.

Exploring Places Unknown

Amy Strachan and Wendy Adams go spelunking as part of the ES spring trip. The trip is a month long and it gives students hands-on experience.

Sail Away

Crew members Jocelyn McDowell, Laura Pyke, Larina Debrececi, Grace Randhawa, Wendy Adams, and Lisa Corcoran join skipper Roy on a voyage to Pirate's Cove.

Goodbye Cruel World

Lisa Corcoran, Carlin Janowicz, Quinn Landreth, and Josh Sauve-Meuleman think about the meaning of life as they look out into the next world while traveling on the BC Ferry.

Space Glop

In this space glop that Amy Smith found on a trip to Vancouver Island? Okay, maybe it's a sea star but that's still pretty amazing.

Savage Threat

Ian Smith is ready for a fight to protect his teacher and his friend. These are typical ES swim suits. Note the teacher Bob Sharp's newest swimming attire.

Found in Hallway
often during class. (l) Jimmy Gattie, Ryan Norquay, Chris Williams, Shawn Sweeney, and Sean Ryles displaying strength in numbers.

Can't Open My Mouth Right Now
it's full of muffin," says grade eleven student, Nicole Dekuysscher. The cafeteria serves muffins, croissants, cinnamon buns, and other goodies at morning break.

Grad 2000, We're Not but sitting in front of the grad bulletin board makes Kurtis Gerein, Saul Morrison, Ryan Enns, Tyler Gratton, all in grade 11 and Katie Dodd, grade 10, feel a little closer to that magical moment, graduation.

Beauty and the Beast
Angel Amanda Farrell and classmate Leif Verhees don costumes to tell ghost stories. Both are grade twelves.

Spreading Cosmic Cheer
Grade 9 students, Niomi Driscoll-McKinnon, Lindsay Sinclair, Ayla Anderson, and Moriah MacMillan spread smiles.

Lounging Around
Hanging out in the hallways before school are good buddies Nataalka Luciuk, Anna Krangle-Long, Kate Bradshaw, Jessica Jobin and Charlene Waterreus (grade 9).

TWICE THE TROUBLE

Megan Antoine and Kara Hendrie, both grade 9 students, team up to face any challenges.

2 Heads > 1

Because

1. They increase brainpower.
2. Combined IQ goes up.
3. It's easier to be double the trouble.
4. They are easier to notice.
5. Someone else's hair is always worse.
6. There are four nostrils for breathing.
7. If you lose your head, there's always one left.
8. There's always someone else to blame.
9. It takes less energy to think.
10. There are more creative excuses.
11. They have 2 chances of looking good and
12. A better chance of being right.

MORE BRAIN POWER? RIGHT

David Quinsey and Colin Schwindt share their expertise in Spanish class. The result of the teamwork is uncertain.

GOOD HAIR DAY X2

Jenna Rich and Lindsay Sinclair show that cosmic dust is really a positive and useful thing. They know the power of two.

MIRROR MIRROR ON THE WALL

who is the fairest of them all? Could it be Heather Peake or perhaps Tara Grant, both grade tens. This is a pretty typical uniform for the cosmic angels.

QUINTUPLETS FOUND
 (L) Caitlin Smith, Chelsea Wengzynowski, Sofie Fortin, Scott Nguyen and Kirsten Hulstein love togetherness. At least that's what it looks like.

MM JUST WONDERING
 why one head is so happy and the other so pensive. The happy belongs to Brittany Tremblay and the pensive to Angela Dunlop. Both students are in grade 8.

TWO TWO TWO HEADS IN ONE or at least that's what happens here for Rachel Carter and Amy Smith, both graduates this year.

MORE FOCUS HERE WITH 2
 Teri Buyck (grade 12) and Heidi Bob (grade 10) make a dynamic duo especially when assignments are due today.

ROCKET GIRLS

The Grade 8 science class recently made toy rockets from film canisters, paper and Alkaseltzer tablets. Seen here are Carissa Squire and Hayley Marks.

DON'T BLOW JUST YET

Cheyenne Battaja concentrates on his creation. Water and alkaseltzer cause the lift-off.

JUST A HUB OF ACTIVITY

When most students were ready for Christmas holidays, Daniel Sessford and Jaspreet Kaur are very involved in rocket science.

CARVING A FUTURE

Joe Sam is busy carving during a workshop given by a local carver, Ken Anderson, who carves in the traditional NW Coast style.

WORKING WITH WOOD

we find Moses Jackson, a grade 9 WELS who worked with Ken Anderson, a Tlingit carver.

JUST CHIPPING AWAY

L: Shane Gordon, James Dawson, John Charlie and James Lillie practice the skills that they were shown over the three-day workshop.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB
Hugh MacAlpine and Andrew Blaker play in their home-made boat in a recent Boat Building Contest sponsored by Skills Canada.

CONSTRUCTION IS FUN
at least for David Stehelin and Andre Lebel, who are too busy to be disturbed as they get their design ready to launch.

JUST ONE BIG BATHTUB RENDEZVOUS
for David Quinsey and Logan Gilday as they strive to defeat the unbeatable or is it unsinkable, Andrew and David.

FASHION SHOWS ARE GREAT
according to Morgan Bouquot, one of the participants in the Spanish class's fashion show.

"I LOVE BEING ON THE BOARDS," says grade ten student Justine Alton, another one of the models in the Spanish class's fashion show.

LEARNING IS SO MUCH FUN
according to students, L: Jocelyn Plemel, Dallas Dymacek, Tess McLeod, Morgan Bouquot and Justine Alton.

ENJOYING THE SUNSHINE

Kirsten Hulstein, Fred Stick, and Keddy Adams take a rest before skiing up the Haines Summit. This was only one of the many OPES trips.

THE BUDDY SYSTEM

Keddy Adams, Pam Harris, Brodie Smith, and Sabrina Fred hang out at the Canadian-Alaskan border on their way to kayaking in Haines.

COKE AND ICE CREAM

(l) Mr. O'Connor, Jason Boily, Fred Stick, Pam Harris, Jeston Laluk, Johannes Menzel, Keddy Adams, Kirsten Hulstein, Danielle Bouvier, Jarvis Lyons, Morgan Bouquot, Bonny Finch, Dallas Dymacek, and Sabrina Fred stop for snacks.

IT'S A DIRTY JOB

but somebody's gotta do it! Pam Harris and Donny Finch haul their porta potties on the way up the summit.

TASTES LIKE CHICKEN

Brodie Smith and Pam Harris chow down on their well-deserved hot dogs after canoeing all day on the Nisutlin River.

OH, SO COOL?
Johannes Menzel seems to think he is while posing for a picture on the Nisutlin River.

LOOKING FOR FUN?

Look Towards the OPES 98/99 Class!

Land, at last! After a rough day at sea, Pam Harris shows her affection for dry land. Lips meet sand.

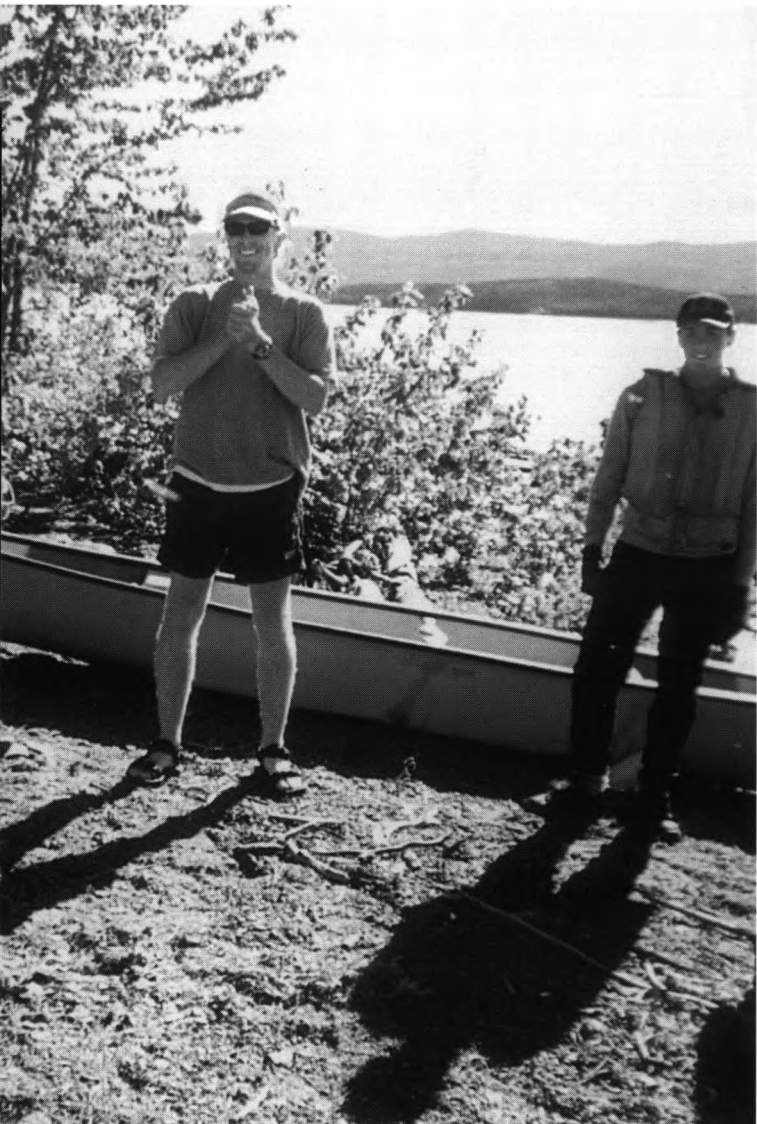

Ha ha very funny! Dallas Dymacek seems to think so, but Danielle Bouvier isn't so impressed.

Smelling good? Take a look at Adam Byblow's face as he takes a whiff of Keddy Adams' feet. Some people will do anything for attention.

Gulp, gulp, gulp! Fred Stick's kayak seems to be swallowing him whole before he "heads out" kayaking.

WE ARE FAMILY!

Showing their strength, the OPES crew tough out another trip with smiles on their faces.

I DON'T HAVE GAS

nor energy so here I'll sit. Jason Boily searches for a solution to his problem.

THE MAN WHO MADE IT ALL POSSIBLE...

Kevin O'Connor, the leader of the pack followed by one of his many groupies, Jeston Laluk.

Atlas at Last

Trina Irving shows that she's the strongest woman in our school universe, definitely a supreme entity. Trina graduated from FH Collins and now teaches English and Social Studies.

Shhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh!

Band master Adam McConnell, aka FH's music teacher practices Tai Kwon Do. Actually, he's decrescendoing the Whitehorse Youth Honour Band at the October concert.

Fall Out, Fall In, Fall Over

or is it all over? Sandra Henderson, one of the Vice Principals shows closeness to a number of staff members. Here it is Ted Garland who receives the hug.

SUPREME ENTITIES

Staff Life

Unexplained phenomena with "superior" intelligence, grace the school with their presence. They are beyond dwarf stars and cosmic dust. Towering over black holes and super novas, they go face-to-face with the big bang. Supreme entities, omniscient and powerful, are the higher part of the galaxy.

Another Hard Day at Work
Vice Principal Imants Bunkis. Here he gives thanks for being a Supreme Supreme Entity. When he is not gaining more oxygen in his office, he teaches science.

Superior Intelligence?
Chris McNeill's minions wonder whether their leader really does have superior intelligence. Mr. McNeill, along with Terry Berquist, looks after Learning Assistance.

Rulers of the Universe
Maryanne Campbell, Debbie Ingram, and Margaret Black seen here with a phone pasted to her ear, plot the course of the universe from Mission Control Centre.

Coat check girls Amber Ursich and Kim Ho are having a wonderful time at the December dance. Amber and Kim are all smiles as their shift is almost over.

Being Cool. Heather Harris, Land Pearson, Stephanie Beasley and Brianne Meister take a little time out of their busy schedules to pose for a photo.

Stars of the Show

People

We now present the dreamy grade 8 dwarf stars, the cool cosmic grade nine dust and the bodacious grade ten black holes on their interplanetary pilgrimage. Mysteries of the universe are the playgrounds for the grade eleven super novae and the grade twelve big bangs. These cosmic entities will treat you to the show of a lifetime.

Unbridled Enthusiasm. Karalyn MacKenzie is ready to conquer any task as she readies herself for a world of discovery in science class.

Rising star Wade Stewart just likes to hang around. This future "Saturday Night Live" star is already used to the camera.

Dwarf stars Danika Gonda and Emilie Fortin are having a blast in Science 8. Their futures look bright.

Grace Randhawa and Rachel Jensen just connecting.

Ashley Houde looks for opportunity.

Laura Pyke, The Thinker Look-Alike.

CROWD PLEASER:

A bevy of beauties hangs out outside the dance hall at the Valentine's Dance. These grade 8's are going to take the world by storm.

LIPS ANYONE?

Cody Joe shows his favourite pose as he watches the bevy in action. Cody is in grade 10 just practicing for a dramatic presentation.

POSING IS SO MUCH FUN

or so it seems to be the question on Honey Benjamin's (R) face. Lisa Van Kalsbeek, seems comfortable with the prospect.

HATS ON AND ALL ABOARD

for Patrick Gormley, a grade 12 student. He works better with his hat on just to help contain all those active synapses.

CONGRATULATIONS, JEREMY
Jeremy Harper receives an award for Leadership and Attitude from Emma Alfred of the Pelly Crossing Band. Jeremy is a student in the WELS program.

THE BEST OF THE BEST
Graham Nishikawa shows off his ability to look through the lens. Marcia Davidson, Jessica Randhawa and Brianna Meister can hardly hold back the delight.

COOKS HAT
Robert Dawe displays the newest in head fashion in the Heart Smart Cafeteria where he busily prepares food for the hungry masses.

FUR HAT DISPLAY
is part of Justin Argen's newest ensemble in his Spanish Class. Justin, a grade 9 student, seems to need to keep his head covered.

CATCHIN' SOME ZZZ's
We caught Rod Binnie, a grade 11 student taking some time out of his busy day to catch some needed rest that he didn't get during his busy night.

SMILES GALORE
is the theme of the newest head cover for grade 9 student, Dylan Russell. His hat is only part of his entire wardrobe for his Spanish class.

Intergalactic Achievements

Academics

They said
it could be done;
they knew
it could be done;
they believed
it could be done;
and it was.

FH students explored the universe and its knowledge. Unlike Icarus, they defied the laws of science as they flew higher, right into the sun.

Their intergalactic achievements will allow them to face successfully all their future challenges.

Kyle Finner, a grade 12 student, works hard, especially when the camera is focused on him.

Researchers at Work
Lance Rehn, Arthur Carriere, Nick Thompson and Stefan Saunders, all grade 8 students hardly have time for a smile.

Exam Mania for the grade 8's. They write their exams in the cafeteria, where they are seen here busily showing what they know.

Once More Unto the Breach for the students. Exams are written in the gymnasium which fills with multitudinous numbers at the end of each semester. This is the English exam sitting.

Psyching up to show how much they know are some of the students seen here in a moment of concentration.

Calm before the storm show the emptiness before the invasion. This was the scene minutes before the beginning of the exam sitting at the end of the first semester.

Sometimes hands on learning allows us to delve into something and really get to know it well.

LIVE & LEARN

FOR SOME CLOSE WORK

Andrew Osis shows is finer work in this project in his woodworking class. Andrew is in grade 8.

HOLD THE MOUTH RIGHT

and things usually work fine for Cole Pearson seen here setting his project into a press in Applied Skills. Cole is a grade 9 student.

WATCH THE MASTER

and it will become much easier for you. That's easy for Mr. Duncan to say. Here he is at work in his Applied Skills 8 class.

SAFETY FIRST ESPECIALLY FOR THE

eyes. John Hawthorne, a grade 11 student checks out the machinery before turning on the saws.

JUST A LITTLE DAB WILL DO YA

All Ellen Kaye needs is a little stain to finish off her project in wood-working. Ellen is a grade 8 student.

LIGHT TAP WILL DO IT

That's what Carly Boss is doing as she taps in the dowels in her wooden box. Carly is a grade 8 student.

POURING OVER THE BOOKS

Here is Jennifer Joe, a grade 11 student. Reading is essential in her quest for intergalactic achievement.

THUMB UP FOR VICTORY

Patrick Mole, is one happy guy as he conquers some more of the wonders of the shop area. He is one of the big bangs.

COMMUNITY OF LEARNERS

Tess McLeod and Theresa Woo are definitely having more fun than Scott Nguyen and Stephen Horton who are working very hard at interpreting those maps.

STEP ONE

Hold the pencil in the right position and you will conjure up the muses. Then crane your neck to see what others are doing. Oh yes, and curl up so that you are comfortable.

The Steps to Success

In Exams

1. Hold the pen/cil tight
2. Relax so you can think
3. Hear the music
4. Focus and stay there
5. And study early.

In Life

1. Enjoy it
2. Challenge it
3. Risk it
4. Taste it
5. Touch it.

STEP TWO

is to be relaxed so that you are ready for whatever challenge is sent your way. Stephanie Buck is practicing up in Spanish class for exam time.

STEP THREE

is demonstrated here by Adrienne Pelchat, a grade 11 student. Of course, music does make anything more enjoyable.

STEP FOUR

is to stay focused no matter what is happening around you as is here demonstrated by John Woo, a grade 11 student who has had a number of years to practice this skill.

MATH SUCCESS

All it takes is a strong mind, a good text book and a calculator to help you check your answers. Luu Nguyen is demonstrating all these skills at once.

MIXING THE POTION

is what Malcolm Wilson is doing in his science class. There is no guessing what may be born from such an experiment for this super nova.

EXPERIMENTATION

is what abstract art is all about. At least that's what the cosmic duster, Jessica Alfred is showing us. Does this mean we can all do art?

OBSERVATION

is another important skill shown here by dwarf star, Tamara Lucas. She even makes this task look fairly simple.

Student of the Year: Shari Klassen

THE FINAL WORKSHOP
 in conflict resolution and mediation skills was held at the end of June. Here some of the participants and organizers just take a break.

STUDENT ORGANIZER
 Amy Strachan was a key organizer of this workshop put on by YouCan, an organization of under 25 year olds, who train others in these skills.

SOLVING AND RESOLVING
 All it takes is practice in the key skills. Here students and teacher Scott Kerby get ready to do some role playing and practicing techniques.

LISTEN TO US
 That's one of the key skills to develop when participating in the workshop. The plan is to make conflict resolution and mediation a part of the school's discipline policy.

ONE OF THE LEADERS OF THE PACK
 was Jeff from YouCan. Unfortunately, photo day, his partner, Dave was too ill to participate. Jeff was always accompanied by his trusty friends, seen here in his hands.

Missing: Two Brooms for grade 12 students, Kelly Rittinger and Stephanie Cobbold. Stephanie is visiting us from France.

Honour Band members work with conductor, Adam McConnell. Whitehorse Youth Honour Band has participants from city high schools.

Future Administrator, Adam Sippel works with Principal Lee Kubica and dance organizer, Dan Bisson to keep order at the Valentine's Dance.

Inter- planetary Conquests

Clubs & Activities

From planet to planet, new adventures begin. Explorations in music, weight lifting and travel help us explore different planets. People organizing and participating in dances, Young Authors' and Interchange Conferences led to new understandings, stellar achievements and interplanetary conquests.

Waiting for a plane to Quebec are the French Immersion students and their chaperones, Alain Dallaire and Imants Bunkis.

Pizza for Sale, Lots of It, according to the students selling to raise money for this year's Quebec trip. It seems there were more pizzas than hungry students.

Getting the heavy end is weightlifter Rebecca O'Brien. Josephine is a grade 8 student who is training with Ms. Trina Irving for competition later in the season.

EUROPE ANYONE?

The European travellers take time out for a group picture in front of the Coliseum.

VENICE IN THE MIST

Venice was one of the stops along the route during their European sojourn.

A WELL NEEDED BREAK is what the pigeon seems to want on top of Johannes Menzel's head. Although a bit surprised, Johannes seems to be enjoying the visit.

ROMAN COLISEUM is the backdrop for this shot.

LETTING LOOSE at a discotheque in the Paris Youth Hostel are Jacklyn Stockstill and Cassie Meier, both grade 11 students.

WHITEHORSE YOUTH HONOUR
band members: L: Krissy Brown, grade 9; Robin Boss, grade 11; Sylvia Frisch, grade 12 and Laura Mataseje, grade 11 play for "Lights Across Canada."

BLOWING OUR HORNS
here is the horn section of the band. They are playing "Mars" by Gustave Holst in their first concert of the year.

THE MAESTRO IN ACTION
Adam McConnell conducts the thirty young people who take part in this band. The band was started by the Band Teachers.

SARAH AND FRIEND
Sarah McCullough and Ben Snow and the rest of the band are planning to travel to Whistler Music Festival.

TUBA LET LOOSE
The instrument is looking pretty big when it's held by Keeley Osland, a grade 12 student at Vanier.

KEEPING WARM

is difficult for Larina Debrecini, Lisa Corcoran, Sylvia Frisch and Laura Pyke as they wait to do a plankton drag at Cowichan Bay.

CATHEDRAL GROVE

was one of the stops along the way for the ES students, Sylvia Frisch and Grace Randhawa.

A BIT OF GRECO ROMAN wrestling is part of the relaxation for Quinn Landreth and Bob Sharp. That's Sharp on the bottom.

THREE IN THE MIDDLE of the Liard Hot Springs. The three-some includes Ian Smith, Robbie Babcock and Quinn Landreth.

JUST A HEAVE HO
and that's all Shane Gordon needs to get this over his head. Shane won Gold in the Christmas Tournament and in the Yukon Championships.

GETTING IN SHAPE
is Kyle LaBoucane who practices regularly in the weight room with the lifters.

YEAH, IT'S VICTORY
for Josephine O'Brien. Josephine has won two silver medals and will be going to the Western Canadian Championships in Saskatoon in April.

MAKING IT LOOK EASY
is Bhupendersingh Aulakh, who lifts in the 105 kg plus category. He won Gold at the Yukon Championships.

Shooting Stars

Sports

Is it the thrill of competition, or the excitement of developing new skills or the prospect of continuous fitness, both physical and mental, that draws people to sport? For some of these “shooting stars” it’s the discovery that comes with the connection to other stars. Then they create new constellations, new galaxies and new limits.

Reach for the Top

That’s the advice for Adam Sippel who seems at a slight height disadvantage against blockers, Jack Talsma and Jake Cabott.

A Volleyball Scrum

with Coach Peter Grundmanis. The captive audience is the senior boys’ volleyball team. Hopefully, the advice helped them win Gold at the Yukon Championships.

Just Tiptoeing Around

Greg Stewart shows fine foot work in his PE class as he carefully lifts the ball. Greg has a few years to practice before he tries out for the Canadian team.

World Events

The Battle at Seattle. One of the most controversial issues these days continues to be free trade. Some people fear that more liberal global trade rules will hurt key domestic policies, especially those that protect the environment and workers. Last December, 50,000 people took their concerns to the street, disrupting a World Trade Organization meeting in Seattle, Wash. (AP/Dan Krauss)

The Kennedy Curse. Another horrific tragedy befell the Kennedy family. John Kennedy Jr., who was a toddler when his father was assassinated in 1963, died along with his wife Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and her sister Lauren Bessette, when the plane he was piloting crashed into the ocean near Martha's Vineyard, off the coast of Massachusetts. JFK Jr. was founder of the political-celebrity magazine George. (AP/Douglas Healey)

Water rising. It was another year for devastating natural disasters. Taiwan and Turkey were rocked by earthquakes. Venezuela was buried under mudslides. And in the most terrible flood to hit Africa in recent memory, Mozambicans were forced to flee their homes as water swept away entire villages, perhaps killing thousands. Heroic efforts were made to save people who were helpless for days from the rising water level, including one woman who gave birth to her baby while stranded in a tree.

(AP/Karel Prinsloo)

Just a kid. He was only a six-year-old boy, but he became the centre of an international incident, caught between bitter enemies Cuba and the United States. Elian Gonzalez was found floating in the ocean after a boat he was travelling in with his mother capsized as they were attempting to flee the Cuban dictatorship of Fidel Castro. His mother drowned. A fight over custody of the boy pitted the boy's father in Cuba against anti-Castro relatives in Miami. (AP/Alan Diaz)

Forgive us. Despite his 79 years and failing health, Pope John Paul II continues to travel the world in his quest to foster international brotherhood. As part of the Jubilee 2000 celebrations, the pontiff undertook two pilgrimages to the Holy Land which took him to holy sites of Islam and Judaism as well as Christian spots such as Bethlehem, the town of Jesus's birth, and Egypt's Mount Sinai, where Moses is said to have received the Ten Commandments. The Pope also expressed dismay at historic Christian anti-Semitism, singling out the Jewish Holocaust during the Second World War. (AP/Eyal Warshavski)

High school massacre. It was a bloody day in a suburban Colorado high school that sent shock waves through families around the world. Twelve students and one teacher were gunned down at Columbine High School, just outside of Denver, by fellow students Dylan Klebold, 17, and Eric Harris, 18, who then killed themselves. The pair in videotapes they left behind blamed teasing from classmates for their deadly actions. The incident again sparked much discussion over gun control, but little action was taken. (AP/Rick Wilking)

Hillary's struggle. It's tough to be a woman in politics and having a husband like Bill Clinton, famous for his personal indiscretions, certainly does not make things easier. But First Lady Hillary Clinton tried to distance herself from her scandal-plagued husband after announcing her bid for the Senate seat in New York state. Clinton will go head to head against popular New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani. (MACLEAN'S/Phill Snel)

Out with the old. Russia put on quite a political show on New Year's Eve. Soviet Union Prime Minister Vladimir Putin received the torch from president Boris Yeltsin, who surprised his countrymen by suddenly resigning. During his eight years of rule, Yeltsin helped Russia continue to move away from its earlier communist regime toward a capitalist market economy, and suffered through failing health and civil wars with Chechens demanding independence. Putin cemented his power in March by winning over 50 per cent of the vote in the presidential election. (REUTERS/ITAR-TASS)

Abandoned children. The fight against HIV and AIDS focussed on Kenya. The poor African country is plagued by high incidents of the virus and parents abandoning their diseased children to die. The World Health Organization predicts the population of children with HIV will reach 120,000 this year. The situation is so bleak, a centre had to be established in Nairobi to care for the lost toddlers. (AP/Sayyid Azim)

And the winner is? It was a heated primary race, but when the dust settled after Super Tuesday, Vice-President Al Gore, above, and Texas Governor George W. Bush Jr. beat their competition to become the Democrat and Republican nominees for the fall presidential elections. It was a hard-fought competition for all candidates, which included Bill Bradley and Vietnam vet John McCain. (AP/Doug Mills)

What a gas! Gasoline prices hit an all-time high this year, beating those set during the oil crisis of the 1970s and their peak in the 80s. Angry motorists blamed everything from politicians and taxes to oil companies suspected of price fixing.

Canadian Events

But will the food get any better? Now, Canadians have just one major airline. After months of stressful and emotional bids and counter-bids, Air Canada won a takeover of financially faltering Canadian Airlines. The takeover raised concerns about the lack of competition raising fares and reducing service to smaller centres, but Ottawa promised to keep a close eye on the air carrier to ensure consumers aren't gouged. (CP/Kevin Frayer)

Passing the torch. British Columbia made Canadian history by choosing the first-ever premier of colour. Punjabi-born Ujjal Dosanjh won an NDP leadership race after premier Glen Clark resigned following yet another scandal that rocked his problem-plagued party. (MACLEAN'S/Bayne Stanley)

Farm Crisis. Farmers across the prairies suffered from the worst conditions since the Dust Bowl of the 1930s Depression. But this time, the cause of their dismay was not bad weather, but rock bottom prices from their wheat. Failing to receive sufficient financial help from government and banks and with no hope in sight, many people lost their family farms. Some even took their lives.

(MACLEAN'S/Todd Korol)

Boiling pot. It may be peaceful under the sea, but on land, tensions were high among fishers. Aboriginal and non-native East Coast fishers faced off over lobster after Mi'kmaq fishers in New Brunswick claimed it was legal for them to harvest the crustaceans during the off-season. Violence and vandalism broke out when the primarily white fishers protested the exercise.

(CP/Andrew Vaughan)

Charge it. Tuition fees for college and university continued to rise across the board. More students than ever applied for financial assistance, and an increasing number also defaulted on their loans. This forced governments to tighten the rules on personal bankruptcy around student loans, but not enough to please the big banks which pulled out of the controversial loans program leaving the Feds to hold the money bags.

(MACLEAN'S/Craig Chivers)

The doctor won't see you now. After years of cutbacks to social spending, the health care system seemed to tear apart at the seams when a number of hospitals began turning away patients in the winter due to a combination of severe flu outbreaks and not enough beds. It is no longer uncommon to wait days for treatment or have patients sleep on gurneys in hospital hallways due to a shortage of beds. (MACLEAN'S/Todd Korol)

In the soup. Human Resources Minister Jane Stewart shuffled in the spotlight when she and her party had trouble accounting for the over-$1 billion handed out by her department for start-up companies and job training. But despite the "billion-dollar boondoggle," the federal Liberals maintained good marks in popularity polls.

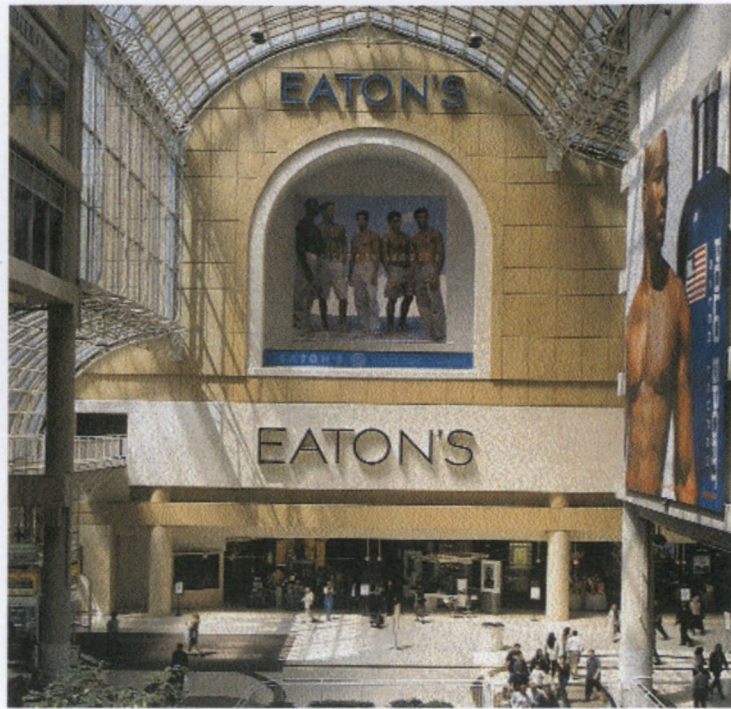

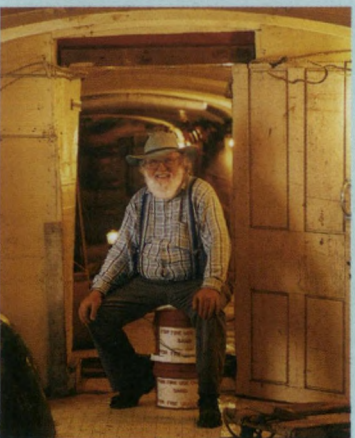

(REUTERS/Jim Young)

Adrienne Clarkson Presents.

She is our second female governor general, but our first of Asian descent. Adrienne Clarkson, a former broadcaster, promises to liven up the office of the Queen's formal representative in Canada. Clarkson said she would be sharing the responsibilities of the job with her husband, John Ralston Saul, a writer and philosopher.

(MACLEAN'S/Peter Bregg)

Everything must go! After 130 years as a Canadian cultural and business icon, the Timothy Eaton Company closed the doors of its department store chain last fall for the final time. In the fallout, rival Sears bought a handful of stores and agreed to operate them under the Eaton's banner, including the flagship store in downtown Toronto's Eaton Centre. Nearly 13,000 people lost their jobs in the closure, many of whom were students employed part-time. (MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

Hero or crook? After months of high tensions in the community of Peace River, Alta., a 16-year-old girl was shot and killed on a farm belonging to Wiebo Ludwig. She and friends were joyriding on the property at the time. No charges have been brought for lack of evidence, but the environmental activist and former preacher is facing charges of vandalizing equipment and property belonging to oil companies he says are polluting the environment. (CP/Adrian Wylid)

Out of the frying pan. Y2K fears fizzled quicker than it took to finish the countdown to the new millennium when the world failed to detonate at the turning of the clock. The next day, some people nursed hangovers, others went about business as usual. Survivalist Bruce Beach, left, had to find another use for the 42-bus fallout shelter he built in case of social breakdown.

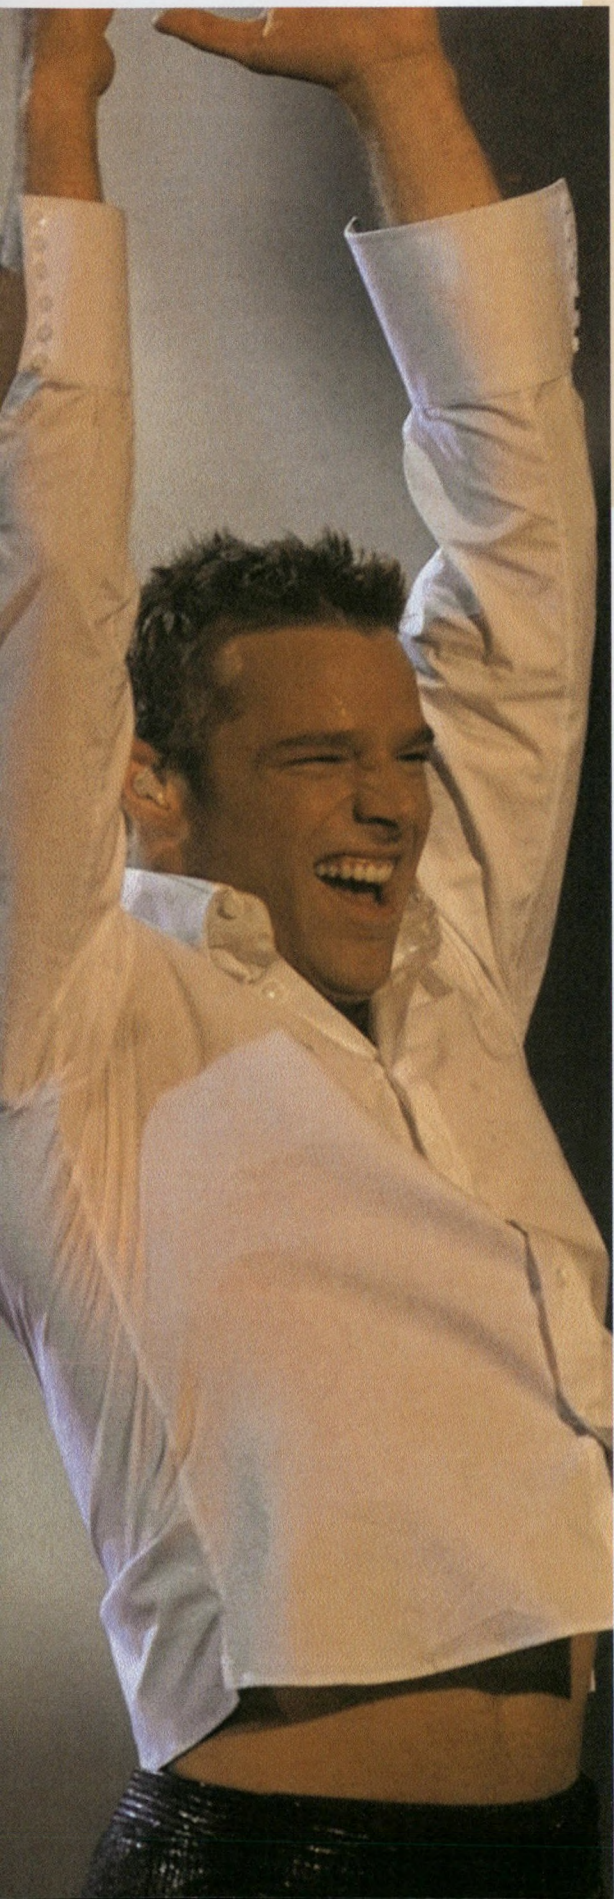

(MACLEAN'S/ Rick Chard)

Another first. Beverley McLachlin is Canada's first female chief justice. The distinguished jurist has sat on the Supreme Court of Canada for 11 years. Only months earlier Louise Arbour, who was top prosecutor to the UN's war crimes tribunal, was appointed to the Supreme Court. (MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

So Smooth. After 30 years in the business, Latin music guitarist Carlos Santana was finally widely recognized for his achievements. His latest offering Supernatural, which paired him with pop stars Rob Thomas of Matchbox 20 and soul diva Lauryn Hill, earned Santana a series of radio hits and eight Grammys. (AP/Reed Saxon)

Roots. Erykah Badu shared her Grammy win for rap performance with The Roots. Badu's summer schedule took her haunting vocal soul stylings on the road with the band, appearing at their Woodstock '99 performance in Rome, N.Y. Said Badu at the Grammys: "I feel that I'm one of the midwives aiding in the rebirth of music and I hope that it can go back to a place where it mostly inspires and uplifts us, instead of teaching us to do stuff that's not so healthy."

(AP/Kevork Djanssean)

Chick-lets. It's amazing what a little makeup can do. After Shania Twain's phenomenal success popifying the musical genre, the Dixie Chicks were given a makeover that transformed their image and music into a successful package that earned them a growing fan base and five Country Music Award nominations. The Chicks also got a boost touring with Lilith Fair and performing on Sheryl Crow's recent live album. (AP/Michael S. Green)

Is anybody out there? Rockers Our Lady Peace continued their meteoric rise with the release of their third album, Happiness Is Not a Fish That You Can Catch. The band's frontman, Raine Maida, also married singer-songwriter Chantal Kreviazuk.

How sweet it is. Jazz pianist Diana Krall, 34, joined the ranks of Canadian women who achieved success at the Grammys. Krall, from Nanaimo, B.C., whose top-selling album When I Look in Your Eyes re-popularized the musical genre, took home the award for best jazz vocal performance.

(MACLEAN'S/ Phil Snell)

Teen idol turmoil. And the pop onslaught never seems to stop. Teen female sensation Christina Aguilera gave Britney Spears a run for her money with a six-time platinum, self-titled debut album. In a mild Grammy upset, the former New Mouseketeer beat out Spears for the award for best new artist (AP/Keivork Djanssezian)

A future so bright. Ottawa is an unlikely source for a summer song. But Len, who hail from Canada's capital, caught the ear of North American listeners with the single "Steal My Sunshine" that lasted for months on the top 20 charts. The pop band, which includes Marc Costanzo and his sister Sharon, finally won recognition with You Can't Stop the Bum Rush, the band's fourth album. (CP/Kevin Frayer)

Put your hands in the air. Urban music in Canada came of age, joining the roster at the annual cross-Canada touring music festival EdgeFest. Once considered a curiosity by the music industry, rap is the only music genre to see an increase in sales. Canadian hip hop artists Maestro, Choclair and the Rascalz, above, are poised to represent Canada on the international scene and prove that it isn't only about Anne Murray. (MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

Big Money. Britney Spears simply isn't having any luck. First she injured her knee while practicing for the video to the single "Sometimes." Then just over a year later, a camera fell on her head on the set of her video "Oops! ...I Did It Again!" But don't cry over poor Britney. Her fortunes more than cover the doctor's fees. Forbes magazine recently pegged the pop star's revenues for 1999 at $15-million (U.S.). (AP/Karen Hoyt)

Sweet Surrender. Sarah McLachlan hung up her touring shoes. The woman who birthed Lilith Fair, a touring summer festival of all-female performers, put a lid on the project after three successful years. McLachlan says she now spends her time at home "making pillows" with her musician husband. The singer-songwriter took home an International Achievement Award at the Junos. (CP)

I'd like to thank the Academy. Newcomer Chantal Kreviazuk surprised Canadian music lovers by taking home this year's Juno award for best female artist. The songstress who first gained notoriety with her version of John Denver's "Leaving on a Jet Plane" from the Armageddon soundtrack, beat out such heavyweights as Alanis Morissette, Celine Dion and Amanda Marshall. (CP/Kevin Frayer)

Never the Twain. She just keeps on growing-in popularity. Still riding on the success of her 1997 album Come On Over, Timmins, Ont.-born country pop queen Shania Twain won several awards, including the Country Music Association's top award for best entertainer. (AP/Michael S. Green)

All I Wanna Do Is Have Some Fun. Riding the success of a third best-selling album, the current queen of rock, Sheryl Crow threw a free party, sponsored by American Express, in New York City's Central Park last summer. The show paired Crow with former boyfriend Eric Clapton and many of her friends including Sarah McLachlan, with whom Crow toured on the Lilith Fair bill. (AP/Suzanne Plunkett)

Lifestyles

Delivery for Ms. Smith. You don't have to be a bike courier to partake in this year's hot fashion accessory. The messenger bag, slung over the shoulder, replaced the backpack as the tote of choice among teens and 20-somethings. The item is especially hot among the jet-set Silicon Valley, new media crowd.

Brand wars. In her popular new book No Logo, Canadian critic Naomi Klein ventured into the brand name debate. The approaching battle, Klein says, will pit traditional image-selling companies such as Nike and Gap against savvy young consumers.

(MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

Keep off the grass. Greening dense urban areas has taken on a whole new meaning. In Toronto, an environmental organization is attempting to revolutionize the city's rooftops. Promoting a popular European trend, Green Roofs for Healthy Cities says planting gardens and laying sod on roofs of buildings can actually lower heating costs and reduce air contaminants.

(MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

Frankenfoods. Breakfast won't be the same anymore. The genetic manipulation of organisms (GMO) to create super-foods might become a super-flub as more people began turning the heat up on companies to label altered products.

(MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

Where to, Pikachu. The Pokemon phenomenon arrived with a vengeance. The popular Japanese game spawned a movie and became an obsession for most five to 10-year-olds, boys and girls alike. It got so extreme that some schools banned Pokemon cards after complaints of violence, in-class distractions and unfair trading.

Butt Out. In the everlasting war against tobacco, Ottawa decided to place scary graphic images on cigarette packages. The pictures of diseased brains, cancerous lungs and rotting teeth and gums are meant to discourage young people from smoking. However, many teens said the new look would not deter their habit. Some actually thought the images were cool.

(CP)

So long, Charlie Schultz. A sad farewell for the creator of Peanuts, a newspaper funnies staple, who passed away from colon cancer at age 77, shortly after hanging up Snoopy for good. The cartoon strip chronicling the pathetic, neurotic lives of Charlie Brown and the gang had been around for nearly 50 years.

(AP/John Burgess)

Digital killer. Do violent video games make an individual murderous? After numerous fatal incidents involving teenage killers, many people have fingered the $17-billion video-game industry as the culprit. Simon Fraser University researcher Brent Stafford conducted studies that he says support their view. He says the games train players to celebrate violence and claims the kids in his tests suffered from symptoms of addiction.

(MACLEAN'S/Bayne Stanley)

I Don't! The Fox network, in an effort to up the game show ante, broadcast Who Wants to Marry a Millionaire?, a contest in which 50 women paraded in swimsuits for their potential mate and answered such hard-hitting questions as "If your house was dirty, would you clean it yourself or wait for the maid?" Feeding the tabloid frenzy, the winning wife subsequently annulled the marriage after the couple's honeymoon. It was also revealed the millionaire had been in trouble with the law and wasn't rich after all. (AP/Carin Bear)

Practice makes perfect. Who needs Mark McGwire? Television producer David E. Kelly kept hitting homers, winning Emmys for his wildly successful series Ally McBeal and The Practice starring Dylan McDermott, above, two shows about lawyers and the funny and dramatic lives they lead. Previous Kelly TV hits include Hill Street Blues and L.A. Law.

(MACLEAN'S/ Phill Snel)

The corpse gets jiggy. The CBC went out on a limb for this one. The latest offering to teen viewers by the public broadcaster, aka The Corpse, is Drop the Beat, a half-hour drama about the hardships of an urban music program on a campus radio station. Shot at the University of Toronto, the series includes appearances by some of Canada's top hip hop artists, including series regular Michie Mee. Perhaps the show's best feature is the true-to-life speech of its characters.

Putting the bite on poverty. It's tough to find time for a life among school, movies, changing the world and kicking vampire butt, but Sarah Michelle Gellar managed to juggle it all. In addition to starring in the popular Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Gellar, who appeared in big screen features Cruel Intentions and Simply Irresistible, put down the stake and picked up a shovel to help Habitat for Humanity build houses in the Dominican Republic.

(AP/Richard Cartwright)

Remember when? Both baby boomers and their children can get into this one. Fox scored in the second season of That 70s Show, renewing it for the next four years. The network is slowly finding replacements for The X-Files as the series, which put Fox on the television map, winds down.

Final answer. Regis Philbin and ABC launched the surprise television hit of the season with Who Wants to Be a Millionaire. The program, which spawned knock-offs such as Greed, allows contestants the opportunity to win a million dollars by answering questions such as Who wrote Cat in the Hat? a) Bill Clinton, b) Dr. Laura, c) Dr. Seuss, or d) Regis Philbin. It also brought the word 'lifeline' into popular conversation.

(AP/Donna Svennevik)

No laughing matter. Late-night talk show host David Letterman recovered without complications from emergency quintuple-bypass surgery. The 52-year-old comic quickly returned to hosting his successful TV show that has brought him into the bedrooms of North America for nearly two decades. (AP/Barbara Nilke)

Family values. In a fashion true to the network's history, Fox continued its on-again, off-again relationship animated series The Family Guy. The program, which spoofs current pop culture and has roots in old-time sitcom Archie Bunker, is one of the few contenders to replace The Simpsons, which is widely speculated to be wrapping up in the next few years.

Movies

Happy couple. American actor Michael Douglas, 55, and Welsh fiancé Catherine Zeta-Jones, 30, said they will announce the date and location of their wedding on Douglas's website before it is announced by the press. The couple, who were engaged on New Year's Eve, had toyed with the idea of marrying on their shared birthday, September 25. (AP/Chris Pizzello)

Rudolph with your nose so bright. The camera loves beautiful stars. However aesthetically pleasing stars Ben Affleck and Charlize Theron could not save the weak Reindeer Games from its mediocrity (AP/Chris Pizzello)

Do you see what I see? Twelve-year-old Haley Joel Osment stole the hearts of fans and the Oscar academy with his portrayal of a young boy who sees ghosts in The Sixth Sense. The movie earned an Academy Award nomination for Best Picture and Osment a nomination for Best Supporting Actor. (AP/Ron Phillips)

Things that go bump. The master of the macabre Tim Burton returned with another creepy tale, directing Sleepy Hollow. Burton paired Johnny Depp, whom he worked with on the unforgettable Edward Scissorhands, and Christina Ricci, who cut her gothic teeth on the big screen version of the old 1960s television series The Addams Family. One more round. Canadians come to the rescue yet again. Canadian director Norman Jewison chronicles for celluloid the work done by a Toronto commune in freeing Rubin "Hurricane" Carter from a U.S. prison. The former boxer languished in jail after being wrongfully convicted of a triple murder. (MACLEAN'S/ Peter Bregg)

Using her assets. The pretty woman is back at it. After a series of light romantic comedies, Julia Roberts starred as a lawyer taking on the big bad polluters in a fictional version of the Erin Brockovich tale. In the real story, Brockovich, a single mother with no law experience, became involved in a lengthy and important legal suit against a company that was polluting a small community. (AP/Bob Marshack)

The suburbs will never be the same. American Beauty swept the Oscars with five wins including best picture. The film starring Kevin Spacey, Annette Bening, Mena Suvari, and Thora Birch, chronicles the deteriorating bonds of a nuclear, modern-day American family as each of their lives spirals to oblivion.

The longest mile. It was long, very long. At three hours-plus, The Green Mile, based on Stephen King's serialized book and starring Tom Hanks, was summarily panned by critics. Maybe it was just too much watery-eyed Hanks for their liking. (AP/Ralph Nelson)

Yeah Baby, Again! Canadian comedian Michael Myers reprised the roles of 1960s special agent Austin Powers and his nemesis Dr. Evil in Austin Powers—The Spy Who Shagged Me. (REUTERS/K.Wright)

This isn't funny anymore. Canadian-born comedian Jim Carrey was overlooked again this year by the Academy Award nomination committee. But his portrayal of the late comic Andy Kaufman in Man on the Moon did manage to earn Carrey recognition with a Golden Globe award for best actor. (AP/Francois Duhamel)

Don't Go Into the Woods. Two guys and a girl proved that with two cameras and a very low budget, you can produce a movie that will reap big box office rewards. The Blair Witch Project, which was the sensation at last year's Sundance festival, also put the sleepy town of Burkittsville, Md., on the tourist map, attracting many people who believe the film is based on a true story.

Welcome back. In his first movie appearance since the box-office smash Titanic, teen heartthrob Leonardo DiCaprio returned to the big screen with mixed reviews in The Beach. However, the film angered environmentalists and the people of Thailand who say 20th Century Fox damaged a Thai national park during filming. (AP/Markus Schreiber)

Funny man. The hit and miss antics of Adam Sandler struck a positive chord this time around. Fans and most critics liked the Saturday Night Live alumni in the more grown-up role of caregiver and romantic lead in his latest feature Big Daddy. (REUTERS/Fred Prouser)

Bye, bye Ms. American Pie. It was the sleeper hit of the summer. American Pie, a low-key marketed, coming-of-age story with a cast of brilliant newcomers, was the surprise comedy hit that had everyone talking. Canadian comedian Eugene Levy starred as the father.

Going twice, going three times, anyone? Actress Drew Barrymore suffered an ego blow when an online auction of her childhood keepsakes by her mother failed to interest bidders. (AP/Michael Caulfield)

Ernest's Sad Passing. He made us laugh. Actor Jim Varney, star of the slapstick Ernest movie series, passed away at age 50 from lung cancer. The comedian first hatched the character of Ernest P. Worrell for a series of TV commercials. Varney also played the voice of the Slinky Dog in the Toy Story films. (AP/Mark Humphrey)

WE WILL REMEMBER . . .

Schmirler: Canada's curling darling Sandra Schmirler died at age 36 after a battle with cancer. She and her teammates won many gold medals, including the Olympics in Japan. (CP/Chuck Stoodly)

Stewart: The golf world mourned the loss of Payne Stewart who died in a strange plane accident: the plane had lost pressure, killing everyone on board shortly after take-off, but it continued flying on auto pilot for hours before crashing. (AP/Chuck Burton)

Moore: He had a need for speed, but understood the risks. The death of 24-year-old race car driver Greg Moore was made all the eerier by comments two days earlier that seemed to foreshadow his fatal accident on the track of the Marlboro 500 at the California Speedway: "You'll never be able to make race cars completely safe. Things happen at that speed." (AP/Carlos Osorio)

All the right moves. After a poor showing at the 1998 World Cup soccer tournament, Canada's men's team surprised the world with an upset 2-0 win over Colombia for the Gold Cup, a competition among the United States, soccer powerhouse Mexico and Caribbean nations. (AP/Kevork Djansezian)

Go get 'em Tiger. It was yet another good year for golf sensation Tiger Woods. The 23-year-old greens veteran took home his sixth PGA tour win in a row, unprecedented in the modern era. He has singlehandedly turned golf into an even more popular televised sporting event. (AP/Scott Audette)

No place like home. Canada put on a strong showing both as host and competitor. Winnipeg was home to this year's Pan Am games, largely regarded as one of the best ever. Second only to the United States, Canada took home the most medals of the competition with 64 gold, 52 silver and 80 bronze. Canada's women's basketball team lost the gold to Cuba. Above the team celebrates its semi-final win over Brazil. (CP/Pierre Obendrauf)

Go Girl! The USA women's soccer team beat out China to win the 1999 World Cup. After kicking in the game-winning goal on a penalty kick, Brandi Chastain tore off her jersey to reveal a sports bra that likely shot up sales for the Nike-brand undergarment. (AP/Anacleto Rapping)

Sister, sister. It would have been an awkward moment but great television. Tennis superstar sisters Venus and Serena Williams nearly went head-to-head at the U.S. Open. However, only Serena, 17, made it to the final singles round to beat out Martina Hingis to win the title in only her second year as a pro. However, the pair took home the trophy in the doubles category. (REUTERS/Peter Jones)

Yankees win. After years of squabbling between players and owners, baseball tried to regain some of its magical touch, but a lackluster World Series didn't help. The New York Yankees beat the Atlanta Braves in four straight games. (AP/Ron Frehm)

InVincible. The man many compare to basketball legend Michael Jordan wowed fans time and again with his control of the ball and mastery of the court. At the All-Star game, Vince Carter shot to international fame by winning the exciting slam-dunk contest. (MACLEAN'S/ Peter Bregg)

Tigers roar. Hamilton took home the prize of Canadian football. The Tiger-Cats, who opened the game with a solid lead, went on to beat the Calgary Stampeders in a 32-21 bout for the Grey Cup. (CP/Ryan Remiorz)

Bowl bash. In a time-crunch ending, the St. Louis Rams took home their first-ever Super Bowl win, beating the Tennessee Titans. The Titans ended the game just one yard short in one of the more exciting Super Bowl games in years. (AP/Dave Martin)

Too close to call. The NHL stood by its decision to allow a questionable goal that gave the Dallas Stars a Stanley Cup win over the Buffalo Sabres in Game 6. Confusion followed over the interpretation of a rule that some say should have disqualified the goal because the skate of goal scorer Brett Hull was in the crease at the time. (AP/Gene Puskar)

Heads Up! It was a tough year for professional hockey, as the game was tarnished by a series of violent incidents. A slash to the head left Vancouver Canucks Donald Brashear with a concussion. In a separate incident, Toronto Maple Leafs Brian Berard lost the sight in one eye after being smacked in the face with a stick. (CP/CTV Sportsnet)

Microsurgery. In a scene straight out of a science fiction novel, scientists have developed robots that can execute precision surgical procedures, in some instances through cavities in the body no larger than a fountain pen. Despite all the advancements, though, we are still light years away from the sick bay of the Starship Enterprise. (MACLEAN'S/Phill Snel)

Click to your diploma. Pretty soon getting ready for class will involve little more than switching on your laptop. More and more people of all ages are turning to the Internet to take virtual, accredited courses offered by post-secondary institutions. And to disprove the naysayers, a recent study by Toronto's York University revealed, on average, that students who took classes online received higher grades than their brick and mortar counterparts. (MACLEAN'S/ Mike Pinder)

An Eye for an Eye. In an age when medical breakthroughs seem a dime a dozen, researchers such as Dr. May Griffith at the University of Ottawa made a truly amazing discovery when it was revealed they could replace the eye's cornea using human cells grown in a culture, replacing the need for donor transplants. The biotechnology race is entering full stride as scientists at the University of Toronto are now trying to develop skin and bone substitutes using similar techniques. (MACLEAN'S/ Mike Pinder)

Space, The Final Frontier. And speaking of star voyages, the Hubble Telescope is finally earning its keep. Pristine images of the Keyhole Nebula captured by its lens allowed scientists to peek into the history of the universe. The Nebula is nearly 8,000 light years away. (AP/NASA)

Wow music! Recent developments in digital technology mean that in the near future CDs and tapes for use in music might become a thing of the past. Using software such as MP3 to record, save and distribute music, people can download their favourite tunes from the Web for listening on a computer at home or work, and even on portable players, such as MPWOW. (AP/Laura Rauch)

money.com. Make your parents proud with your financial success by joining the new economy. Investor money flooded into stocks for Internet-based companies making instant millionaires out of basement computer geeks. In Canada, the Internet economy produced $28.5-billion in revenues. According to experts such as consultant David Pecaut, those numbers are expected to jump to $155-billion in 2003. (MACLEAN'S/ Peter Bregg)

The new fur trade. Scientists in Siberia retrieved a fully-preserved woolly mammoth in a scene reminiscent of the Steven Spielberg film Jurassic Park. Camera crews from The Discovery Channel were on hand for the unearthing of the creature believed to have died around 23,000 years ago. Some talk has surfaced about trying to clone the beast. (CP)

Maclean's, Canada's weekly newsmagazine, offers resources for Canadian students. In addition to publishing the annual Guide to Canadian Universities and the Guide to Canadian Colleges, the magazine also offers a school program. The Maclean's In-Class Program is a weekly package of lesson plans, quizzes and activities based on Maclean's articles and essays. With a class subscription to Maclean's, each student receives a copy of the magazine, and a variety of weekly and monthly teaching materials and resources are sent to the teacher as a bonus. For more information call 1-800-668-1951 or (416) 596-5514, or visit the program's website at www.mh-education.com.
