WESTERN LABOR BOARD HOLDS SESSIONS HERE. BRIEFS PRESENTED.

(Contributed)

Last week the Western Labor Board conducted hearings in the conference room of the NWSC here on the wage-structure and factors relating thereto as they exist in the Yukon Territory.

On Nov. 8th both the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union Local 354 (A.F.L.) and the Whitehorse and District Workers' Union, Local 815 (C.I.O.) made representations before the Board. Both union delegations expressed satisfaction with the hearing accorded them by the Board, and feel that this event marks a milestone in the recognition and ultimate adjustment of some of the more flagrant injustices with which labor in the Yukon has had to contend.

Local 815, Whitehorse & District Workers' Union submitted a written Brief to the Board, outlining in a general way, the need of general wage increases covering all categories of workers (Canadian) in the Yukon; recommending that the practice of hiring tradesmen or other skilled labor on a monthly basis be abolished; requesting the Board to advocate to the WPTB a closer check-up of price spreads in the Yukon, and asking for the elimination of the practice of "re-classification", where workmen, hired to do a special type of work at a specified wage, is "re-classified" into a lower wage category.

The submission of Local 815 to the Western Labor Board was supplemented by additional factual materials presented by G. Bolton, financial-secretary of the union, Geo. Stevens, Executive member, and Tom McEwen, member of Local 209, IUMM&S, Vancouver.

The member of parliament for the Yukon, George Black, attended some of the sessions of the Board, and quoted from Hansard some of the representations he had made to the Minister of Labor re the deplorable wage levels in the Yukon. Mr. Black's interest in labor was welcomed by the union delegation.

Mrs. Kerruish is leaving Saturday for the coast en route to Los Angeles and expects to be away from home until about next March.

The weather clerk has been very temperamental and hard to get along with this week—like some people we know. One day the thermometer registered 21 below and on Wednesday it was 40 above.

Two Mayoites recently passed away in the persons of Tom Burns and Alex. Gaboury. The former was found dead in bed and the latter passed away after a prolonged illness.

MAGNIFICENT SUPPORT GIVEN SEVENTH VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN WHITEHORSE AREA AN EVENT IN WHICH WE MAY JUSTLY TAKE PRIDE.

The Star this week is in receipt of the following congratulatory telegrams from Mr. George Kidd, chairman of the Provincial War Finance Committee and from Mr. William E. Thomson, organizer for the Yukon and Northern British Columbia:

Mr. George Kidd

Please convey to the citizens in the Whitehorse area my heartiest congratulations upon the record-breaking results in the Seventh Victory Loan campaign just ended. In achieving record number of applications and largest dollar amount to date the people of Whitehorse area have amply demonstrated their whole-hearted support of our citizens in the services. Congratulations are particularly due to the local committee without whose hard work such splendid results could not have been obtained.

Thank you Mr. Kidd. The sentiments expressed in your telegram are much appreciated and particularly your reference to the fine work accomplished by our local committee.

Mr. Wm. E. Thomson

On behalf of the National War Finance committee I wish to thank all citizens of Whitehorse who so generously participated in the Seventh Victory Loan campaign. As I have had the opportunity during the past campaigns to visit Whitehorse, I know your problems and difficulties and realize better than most just what a tremendous success you have made of this campaign.

I feel that you should be very proud of your achievement in buying over $285,000 Seventh Victory Loan bonds. With this amount of bonds in your hands you now hold approximately $1,300,000 in Victory Loan bonds which is an amazing amount for such a small community.

Much of the credit for your splendid achievement should go to the salesmen of the Whitehorse Men's Council, The Northwest Service Command, and The Standard Oil Co., (Alaska), who so generously gave of their time in canvassing your district. The merchants of Whitehorse are also deserving of appreciation for their splendid support by purchasing to the limit of their ability in all campaigns.

Thanks a million Bill. We are not unmindful of the fact that over the years, during the launching of each campaign, we have on each occasion been favoured with your helpful advice and suggestions, all of which have been an inspiration and guidance to us and have contributed not a little to our success.

Latest Results

A wire we received Wednesday from Vancouver furnishes the latest data as far as the B. C.-Yukon Division is concerned:

WIDOW OF FORMER MAYO RESIDENT SUING FOR LARGER PORTION OF ESTATE.

Mrs. Jewel Binet of Los Angeles, Calif., widow of the late Joseph Eugene Binet, a well-known former resident of Mayo, Y. T., has instituted court proceedings to secure a larger share of the estate than that bequeathed her by will. The net value of estate is given as $43,359. Deceased by his will bequeathed to his widow $150 a month for life and left the remainder of his estate to his brother, Joseph Odilon Binet of Riviere du Loup, Quebec. The widow, who is 58 years of age, claims that after deduction of income tax and exchange she is left with the reduced sum of $113 monthly and asserts this is insufficient for her support as she has no other source of income.

SALVATION ARMY'S RED SHIELD APPEAL FOR SUPPORT LAGS.

Some weeks ago an appeal was made through these columns on behalf of the Salvation Army's nationwide campaign. It was stated at the time that the quota for the Whitehorse area was $2000. To date only $586.50 has been received from 34 donors, leaving approximately $1450 to be raised before our quota is reached. We surely can do better than that.

It is realized by those in charge of this appeal that several factors have served to mitigate the quota being raised at the time the appeal was first made, the principal one being the then forthcoming Seventh Victory Loan. Now that the Victory Loan is finished, and in such a magnificent manner, it should not be at all difficult to raise less than $1500 for the Salvation Army to enable them to continue their wonderful humanitarian work.

We appeal to all in this community who have not already done so, to make their donations without further delay either by leaving them at the local Bank or at the various down-town stores. Remember all donations are deductible from income tax and official receipts are issued for this purpose.

HOUSE RE-ASSEMBLES NOVEMBER 22—VOTE OF CONFIDENCE SOUGHT.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Monday that the House of Commons will re-assemble on Wednesday, November 22, when he will ask for a vote of confidence in the government's stand to continue the voluntary system of supplying reinforcements for overseas service. It is pointed out however that the matter may not be presented to the House in the form of a straight vote of confidence. It seems likely that the government will table all the necessary information and correspondence and then place the onus of deciding the course to be adopted on parliament. Col. Ralston, former Defence Minister, has announced his intention of attending the session which bids fair to be a lively one. It is quite within the range of probability that part of the session will be in camera for reasons of security. No other subject will be discussed at this session.

ous parts of the Yukon for the past ten years. He volunteered for service in March 1942 and was stationed at Victoria, B. C., and Sussex, N. S. before going overseas last October. He was wounded by a shell fragment. No further information is available at this writing.

THE ASHES OF THE PAST

Upon the ashes of the past we must formulate our plans for the future. From our mistakes of the past we may derive our greatest lessons if we will but heed them and strive earnestly to rectify our past errors. This applies with equal force to both individuals and nations alike. After all the majority of us learn mostly by experience and it is experience which makes up the sum total of our lives. Nevertheless there are some experiences which, by reason of their import and far-reaching effect, whilst affecting us muchly as a nation, do not to anything like the same degree, affect us individually. Assuredly we are personally affected but only to a minor degree. It is for this reason, perhaps, that some people fail to understand, and much less appreciate, the great changes which are now taking place in and around us. We more often than not unwittingly circumscribe major world events to such an extent as to put them altogether out of focus with conditions as they really are.

We are all only too familiar with the awful havoc which has been brought about by the present war, the colossal loss of life and wilful destruction, the poignant grief in many homes, the untold misery inflicted upon and the dismal outlook for millions of innocent people, but, to a great extent, they seem to be too far removed to occasion any righteous indignation in our breasts beyond a passing emotion as we read the news of the day. Such flimsy emotionalism is no foundation upon which to plan and build for tomorrow. We must realize that we too, as members of the present generation, are in part responsible for, and have a part to play, in moulding the future. Let's realize this and face the facts fairly and squarely as they come before us for a solution. And in order that we may arrive at correct decisions let us make a point of making ourselves acquainted with what is rightly expected of us so that we shall know exactly what action to take and what course to pursue. This is a duty which we plainly owe to ourselves and to others for upon the foundations we now lay down future generations will build. The destiny of Canada lies in our hands to mar or to make according to how we now act. Realize your duty and responsibility; have courage to do that which is right in the sight of God and fear no man.

WHAT MAY LIE AHEAD

We are all aware that aviation is going to play a major part in the "shaping of things to come" both commercially and internationally, but few realize perhaps how momentous this latter problem is or can become. For this reason we suggest the careful reading of "Winged Peace or Winged Death?" by Air Marshal William A. Bishop, V. C., which appears in the current issue (November 15) of MacLean's Magazine. It is a most illuminating article, setting forth the possibilities of aviation in the future from an international standpoint and written by an authority on the subject. It presents a vivid picture of the possibilities of aviation in the future, and is a warning which must not be allowed to go unheeded. We imagine it will come as a distinct shock to some people. Nevertheless it poses a condition which can arise unless action to circumvent its fruition is now taken.

LEND-LEASE MAY BE DROPPED AFTER GERMANY'S DEFEAT.

WASHINGTON — There is a strong possibility that Britain will lose its fight to have the U. S. extend lend-lease until after the defeat of Japan. The subject will come up for discussion when the new congress meets in January. Informed opinion here is that lend-lease will be limited to the defeat of Germany.

Former Foreign Economic Administrator John Fisher, writing in a national magazine and supported by the Washington Post, makes the suggestion that the U.S. should replace lend-lease with a $4,000,000,000 loan after the defeat of Germany. As security for Britain's part of the loan, he suggests that the U.S. should be given permanent use of strategic British-owned islands in the Caribbean and the Pacific.

The question of security for any loan made to Britain is believed to be important because it is widely rumored that Britain is about to publish a white paper showing she is

FO MULLETT GIVEN FIVE-YEAR TERM FOR ARMED ROBBERY.

VANCOUVER.—FO William S. Mullett, of Vancouver was sentenced to five years in prison on each of two charges of armed robbery and one charge of attempting armed robbery when he appeared before Magistrate Wood in police court on Thursday. Sentences will run concurrently.

Mullett pleaded guilty to the charges after being arrested while attempting to rob the Kitsilano branch of the Canada Bank of Commerce Oct. 25. After his arrest he confessed two bank robberies in Vancouver last year which netted him approximately $10,000. He said he held up the banks to get money to pay gambling debts.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES— Including Farmers

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possesses documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944 (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);
2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee now working for him, whose documents he has not checked before, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division at once on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;
4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;
5. FOR THIS PURPOSE "EMPLOYER" INCLUDES ALSO ANY FARMER OPERATING A FARM, WHO HAS A MALE PERSON WORKING FOR HIM;
6. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada, including farmers, co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st, last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9, for reporting to the Registrar, and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Farmers not needed on the farm during the winter, who answer the urgent call for winter workers in other essential industries, will be given a continuance of postponement of military training while away from the farm.

FRANCE INVITED TO FULL MEMBERSHIP IN EUROPEAN ADVISORY COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON — Britain, the United States and Russia Saturday invited the de Gaulle government of France to assume full membership on the European advisory commission.

This is the most advance step yet taken toward reconstituting France as a great power.

The invitation was extended to the French provisional government at Paris, where Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden were making an Armistic Day visit. The action was announced jointly here and in London and Moscow.

"Among the matters which are receiving the close attention" of the advisory commission, the statement here indicated, is the "question of the surrender terms to be imposed on Germany, and the treatment to be accorded that country."

"Conscious of France's vital interest in the solution of the German problem and of the part which France will inevitably play in maintaining the future peace of Europe, the government of the United States is happy to join in extending to the French republic an invitation to full membership on the European advisory commission," the statement by Acting State Secretary Stettinius said.

QUEBEC MIGRATION PEACE RIVER COUNTRY BARRED BY ORDER.

Any move to establish a French-Canadian "province" in the Peace River country has been "pretty well blocked" by a recent provincial order-in-council literally "freezing" crown lands in that section of the province, it was learned Saturday. Such a campaign is current in Quebec, reports said Friday.

The order-in-council prohibits the taking out of Peace River country land under an agricultural lease—similar to the old homestead plan—by any person other than a long-time resident of the area. In some cases, areas have been marked out where even residents of the district cannot take out land under the lease plan.

Object behind the "freezing" of the Peace River country land is to save selections of land in the area for returning veterans of this war. But authorities agree there was a sudden increase of interest last spring in the northern Alberta land by Quebec French-Canadians. Some think this interest resulted in the quick action taken to reserve the land from lease until after the war when veterans would be given first chance.

Government officials had no comment to make on Friday's Ottawa story dealing with the Quebec campaign to move many young French Canadians from Quebec to the Peace River country.

Training and Education— Doorways to Opportunity

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

In planning Canada's re-establishment program, its framers worked with one principal idea in mind. This was that the only answer to the problem of permanent re-establishment is a job, and that the surest way to get and hold that job is by the skill necessary for it.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Every ex-service man or woman who will be assisted in re-establishment by training is eligible to have it. There is provision for paying fees for all courses and, in addition, the ex-service man or woman may receive maintenance grants up to:

$60 monthly if single;

$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances.

This training is available for the period of service to a maximum of one year, but can be extended beyond that period, if necessary, and if service is more than one year.

EDUCATIONAL TRAINING

This is available to all who are admitted to university within 15 months of discharge and, as in vocational training, fees are paid and there are maintenance allowances up to:

$60 monthly for a single man;

$80 monthly for a man and his wife, together with allowances for dependent children.

These allowances will be continued on a month for month basis of the time in the services, providing all examinations are passed. Outstanding students may have assistance continued to completion of the course.

SOCIAL SECURITY MEASURES

Under the re-establishment program Canada's veterans who, within 18 months of discharge from the services, become ill or unemployed may draw maintenance allowances up to $50 if single and $70 for a man and his wife, together with children's allowances. The out-of-work benefits are for those fit and able to work, but for whom there is no work immediately available. In the case of serious illness there is free treatment and hospitalization for any condition in the year following discharge.

As a further security measure, every veteran who enters insurable employment is entitled, after 15 weeks in that employment, to unemployment insurance credit as though the whole period in the services since July 1, 1941, had been spent in the insurable employment.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

AMERICA'S STAKE IN BRITISH PROSPERITY.

There are two elementary physical facts about Great Britain which have a decisive effect on the prosperity and security of the United States. They are (1) Britain is an island (about the size of Minnesota) off the northwest coast of Europe; (2) it contains relatively little in the way of natural raw material resources.

There is not much that America or anyone else can do to change these two facts, but there are some others which are more changeable. Whether they will be shaped to the good or ill for America's national interest depends to a large degree on America's own actions. These changeable factors are: (3) Great Britain contains, despite its meagre natural resources, a population of 47 million souls; (4) it is intensely industrialised (80% of the population live in cities and towns); (5) it is the world's (including America's) biggest customer; (6) it is a great naval, military and air power.

In simplest terms, the importance of Britain to America's national interest is three-fold—(a) as a customer, (b) as a base for military operations in Europe, if they become necessary for the defense of the United States; (c) as a powerful military ally.

That no other country fills this bill is obvious from the facts and the history of the last few years.

As a customer, Britain bought American export totalling $521 million in 1938. In pre-war years she was consistently the biggest foreign customer of the United States. The next biggest was Canada which bought $418 million in 1938. Third biggest was Japan which bought only $240 million. Britain is, in fact, so big a customer that economists agree that her purchases or lack of them are enough to tip the balance between prosperity and slump in America.

As a military base, Britain is the only piece of land in friendly hands, big enough, and within reach of the Continent of Europe (and also able or willing to provide the necessary facilities), on which a large American force can assemble for launching an attack. Britain is thus America's eastern frontier and first line of defense.

As a powerful military ally, Britain is the only country which, at the same time, is easily reachable from the U. S. and has industrial plants and techniques (and therefore war-potential) comparable, for its size, to America's own. It is also the only country with a world-encircling system of bases and defense out-posts.

These values to America are all dependent upon the relationship that is maintained between those changeable and non-changeable factors mentioned above.

Despite the quite extraordinary exertions of British farmers during the war, it is impossible for Britain to feed herself from her own farms (and any attempt by her to do so would have unfavourable results for the exporting American farmer). She must under normal peacetime circumstances, import the greater part of her food. Before the war she imported two-thirds of it, a figure which has been cut down to one-third during the war. Britain is thereby one of the great markets for the world's farmers.

To pay for these huge food imports Britain must, of course, obtain a great deal of the currency of the countries from which she buys them. To do so she must sell to them—that is, she must export.

Britain has three kinds of exports. Of raw material she possesses only one in considerable quantity—coal. She has many services—the "invisible exports"—for which she obtains foreign currency; shipping banking, insurance, etc. She has also had investments in most countries (now much depleted by war-time liquidation), the dividends from which were paid in the currencies of those countries. But the most important export of all is, of course, the output of Britain's factories.

In order to export industrial products, raw materials must be imported, as well as semi-finished and finished parts from other countries. So Britain is also one of the great markets for the world's raw material-producing and industrial countries.

It is conceivable that Britain might develop an entirely different kind of economy that would not be so dependent on exports and imports. Suppose that, over a period of some years, the force of circumstances compelled a large part of her population to emigrate, until only about, say, 10 million remained. Britain might then maintain a fairly prosperous society, mainly agricultural and living off the products of her own farms. Then she would need relatively small industries and relatively little export and import trade.

Such a Britain, of course, would be useless to the United States, both commercially and militarily. If it had existed in 1940 the Germans would have overrun it as easily as they overran Denmark. There would have been neither enough manpower to resist, and there would not have been the industries to produce the necessary weapons. Nor could there have been a British Navy and Merchant Service to bring the weapons from America.

Thus the only way for Britain to be of value to the United States is for her to continue with her large population and her great, enterprising industrial economy. And the only way she can maintain these is for her to have immense export markets for her goods, services and investments, as well as the means of access to them—shipping and air-lines.

So it is clear that it is to the interest of both Britain and America that Britain should be prosperous, well-populated, industrial nation serving extensive export markets. British and American national self-interests are thus identical and complementary. Here is the really solid and unsentimental basis for continued co-operation between the two countries after the war.

The emphasis, however, must be on the word "national." For obviously there are certain particular localities and industries, in both Britain and America, in which the particular self-interest conflicts with the national self-interest. These will, as is only natural, by rationalisation, identify their particular interest as the national interest, and they will exert all the pressure at their command on the British and American bodies politic to protect it, even to the detriment of the good of the nation as a whole. There lies, in all probability, the greatest danger to Britain and American continuing to serve each other's mutual good after the war ends.

LONDON. — Prime Minister Churchill has won in France one of the biggest diplomatic victories in his career.

He has revived, strengthened and re-established the Anglo - French alliance which was basely repudiated by Marshal Petain and his Vichy quislings. He has brought France back into her rightful place among the great powers of Europe by agreeing not only to her full membership in the European Advisory Commission, whereon only Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States hitherto were represented, but also to her full participation in the military occupation of Germany.

He has offered arms and equipment so that the newly-organized French army, incorporating hundreds of thousands of men belonging to the underground resistance movement, may pursue with the Allies the war against Germany next year and against Japan later on.

In short, he has removed in three days of talks with French statesmen virtually all their grievances and complaints against London and Washington that led to so much misunderstanding and suspicion in recent months. Even the never-smiling Gen. de Gaulle, whose differences with Churchill during the days of his exile in London were many and varied, can only express approval with unaccustomed warmth.

Now France, Britain and Soviet Russia in the future will form a formidable triple alliance with which the smaller countries of Europe will be free to group themselves as Belgium and Norway proposes to do with Britain against future German aggression.

Friendship and admiration for Britain have never been greater in France than today. If Churchill renewed his historic offer of 4 1/2 years ago for common Anglo-French citizenship it would probably be accepted in France with acclamation.

ARMISTIC DAY TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO RECALLED.

LONDON.—As the First Great War ended 26 years ago Saturday, doctors in a military hospital in the German town of Pasewalk studied the case of a shell-shocked German corporal and debated whether to send him to a mental institution.

They finally released the melancholy corporal as fit, and Adolf Hitler walked out into the gloomy day.

In London, War Secretary Winston Churchill stood at the window of his room in Whitehall, looking out toward the crowds in Trafalgar Square. Earlier in the war he had served as first lord of the admiralty and minister of munitions.

In Washington, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, navy department under-secretary, was convalescing from pneumonia.

In Russia, Joseph Stalin was in the process of planning a long-time program of reconstruction for the new Soviet Union—a quiet little man still in the background.

In Germany, Heinrich Himmler was trying to get enough gasoline to operate his taxi; a newspaperman named Joseph Goebbels was seeking employment; Hermann Goering was boasting of his feats as a combat pilot.

Adolf Hitler failed to make his usual broadcast last week on the biggest Nazi anniversary of all—the anniversary of the Munich beer hall putsch. Stockholm reports say people in Germany believe he is dead. Some reports have hinted that he is mentally ill and that a brain specialist was called to Berchtesgarden.

The KIDS ARE CERTAINLY TOUGH ON SHOES!

1,300,000 MORE PAIRS
OF CHILDREN'S SHOES LAST YEAR

In the last twelve months Canadian manufacturers made for Canadian children about 25% more shoes than in 1939—a fine job—done by the organization and direction of production by this Board's Footwear Administration and the cooperation of manufacturers. And this was accomplished while they were making more essential type shoes for war workers, who wear out their shoes faster than they do in their normal employment.

THE DISAPPEARING ACT OF RUBBER-SOLE SHOES

In normal times most young Canadians got at least one pair of rubber soled, canvas-top shoes a year. But natural rubber supplies fell into enemy hands, and the manufacture of rubber footwear was drastically curtailed. We're now using reclaimed and synthetic rubber in these shoes—there have been more of them this year and there will be more next year. Leather-soled shoes have had to be used in place of this rubber-soled footwear but shoes made of leather need more care than running shoes. When they don't get it they wear out more quickly; when they get wet they must be dried slowly, away from direct heat—and they should be greased also. It's not always a case of poor quality; it's poor care.

LEATHER GOES TO WAR

You've got to have good strong leather for children's shoes, but the soldiers are taking most of ours for their boots. For these leathers, a substantial portion of the hides came from South America and other countries. War cut down these imports and there have been difficulties in getting enough of these and our own hides tanned into leather due to shortage of workers. The production of high grade leather shoes has, however, been maintained at the highest level consistent with the labour and materials available. While shoe factories have been working overtime, factory capacity for civilian shoes cannot be expanded in wartime and it's not possible to change plants from the manufacture of one type of shoe to another,—for instance, from women's to children's. The processes, the machines and the lasts are different.

TURNING HIDES INTO SHOES

There are very large war uses of leather—for instance, in footwear. A soldier requires four pairs of shoes in the first year of his service and about three pairs per year thereafter. But, what is more important, he needs to have his shoes re-soled four or five times a year. His shoes are of the highest quality leathers obtainable, leaving the other grades of leather for civilian use. Airmen need leather for jackets and mitts. War factories need leather for belting and farmers need leather for harness. Leather—the best leathers—has gone to war.

Through its Standards and its Supply Divisions, the Board watches the production of civilian goods to ensure that everything possible is done to provide the necessary quantities and to maintain the quality. The limitations imposed by the shortage of labour and materials, however, mean that you can't get all you want in wartime.

SASKATCHEWAN HOUSE PROROGUED.

REGINA.—The first session of the Saskatchewan legislature since Premier Douglas' C. C. F. government attained power four months ago was prorogued Friday night.

In 17 days, the government placed legislation on the statute books which will enable it to implement policies outlined in the election campaign.

The contentious Trade Union Act was one of the last pieces of legislation to go through. It was adopted after members approved an amendment that will not make armed service personnel subject to the maintenance-of-membership clause written into union agreements.

Chief Justice Martin, Saskatchewan administrator, gave royal assent to 31 bills, raising to 70 the number passed during the special session.

Under the Trade Union act—the widest piece of labor legislation in the dominion—all Saskatchewan employers are subject to heavy penalties for any interference, coercion or unfair labor practices.

CAPT. GEORGE BLACK, M.P. APPEARS BEFORE WESTERN LABOR BOARD HERE.

At the recent session at Whitehorse of the Western Labour Board Capt. George Black, Yukon's Member of Parliament, repeated his protest made sometime ago in the House of Commons and to the Minister of Labour against the unfairness to Canadian labour of the Government's policy in putting a ceiling on the wages of Canadian wage earners in Yukon, prohibiting their employment by American employers at the high wages paid American workmen for the same class of work.

Capt. Black expressed his approval of the formation of a Labour Union in the Whitehorse District and stressed the fact that without co-operation, without unity of its members no trade, occupation or profession could succeed.

He corroborated the statement in the brief presented to the Board by Mr. Jones, President of the Union, that wages paid in Yukon are in most cases out of proportion to the high cost of living and expressed the hope that the Board, having come to Yukon to see for itself conditions here, would lose no time in making recommendations to the government that would result in a proper adjustment.

The Board consisted of G. B. Kenwood, K.C. of Edmonton, chairman; Col. J. F. Keen, H. G. MacDonald, Malcolm Ainslie and W. Carnill.
