Karate-do, a way of life

Adult karate training

If you are interested in challenging yourself both physically and mentally, karate training may be perfect for you.

Adult classes begin as soon as there is a group of 5 adults or more.

Ages range from 14 to 90+. Never think that you are too old!

Training schedule: one hour twice a week in the Gymnasium of the Elementary school.

The students are able to learn all aspects of Kyokushin karate.

With aspirant students I would like to consult together about date and time.

Price: $5- per class.

ATLIN CABINS ARE UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP

As some of you locals may have heard or noticed, there is a lot of action going on Lake Street downtown at the old Kirkwood Cottages. Yes, it is correct, Bob and I (Jody) Smallwood have purchased the cabins and dock foreshore lease from Len and Edie at the Atlin Inn. The purchase took place the start of 2018. We are under way with renovations inside and out. We will have all 6 cabins up and running for June this year. They all have 2 bedrooms, full Kitchenettes, BBQ on site and Wi-Fi throughout the property and cabins. TV installation is in the works for a few of the cabins. Most of the cabins will be winterized and in the near future we will be building new cabins on site. An addition to the dock is being built for the docking of the houseboat for easy access for houseboat rentals. We will have a few boat slips available this year and more to come as we finish the dock. Check out our website below for more information.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Dr Jocelyn Land-Murphy, a BC-licensed Naturopathic Doctor based primarily out of Whitehorse, comes to Atlin every 4-6 weeks to offer Naturopathic Medicine to the Atlin community.

Her upcoming Atlin clinic dates are July 6th and August 17th. Priority for appointments is given to returning patients, though there is one slot available for a new patient on July 6th, and one slot available on August 17th. Initial appointments are 60mins and include a full medical review. Clinic days are held at the Pew.

Dr Jocelyn's clinical focus is women's health - including hormone balancing, fertility/pregnancy, thyroid/adrenal function, weight loss and digestive function, though she is comfortable treating a range of conditions and patients. As a BC-licensed ND with primary care rights, Dr Jocelyn is licensed to provide acupuncture, spinal manipulations, herbal medicine, IV nutrients, and nutrition/supplement advice, along with having full lab-rights and prescription rights in BC. Dr Jocelyn's services are not covered by MSP but are covered under extended health plans.

You can learn more about Dr Jocelyn at www.terralife.ca, or you can email her at drjocelyn@terralife.ca to see if the clinic is a good fit for your health needs/goals.

Counselor Corner

So why go to counseling?

By Brook Hill

The motivation for going to counselling will be different for everyone. However, research does show that discussing challenging life situations with a trained, unbiased helping professional can be one useful way to help resolve uncomfortable emotions. It can also provide an effective way to undertake a shift in how an individual is actually living their lives. Even so, for some people the very idea of attending counseling can create anxiety. It requires the client to embark on a new relationship which may shine a light on uncomfortable topics or require assumptions about self or others to shift.

The issues that people discuss with a counselor are as varied as those who attend. Sometimes feelings of depression and anxiety will become serious enough for an individual to initiate asking for help from a counselor. Recovery from a traumatic event (including physical or sexual abuse or attending residential school) can be another motivation to enter counseling. Growing up in a home where alcohol and drugs were heavily misused, can lead to unresolved issues related to self-esteem. Sometimes as children begin to mature parents will want some help to ensure that they are providing the best environment possible and will initiate counselling to explore their parenting style. Sometimes conflict with those we live with or at work can become very intense and we may need to examine what the underlying causes of these feelings are. Learning assertiveness, managing anger, reducing drug and alcohol overuse, grief work after a death or a separation, are other common issues motivating individuals to seek out counseling.

Choosing a Counselor.

Should you decide to seek counselling it is essential that you feel comfortable with your counselor. It can be a good idea to have an initial session to see if the therapist seems like someone you could discuss your feelings with. Remember that you are the consumer and it is the client who gets to decide if the counselor is the right person for you to work with.

As a client you have the right to know what qualifications your counselor has and what their previous work experience has been. There are many different types of counselors and their training and background inform their approach. It can be useful for the client to ask about these things to get a sense of how the working relationship might develop. A good working relationship includes feeling of safety and trust so you can speak openly about issues that have brought you there. It is important that you feel heard, understood and secure that the feedback that the therapist provides will be respectful and (hopefully) helpful.

Research shows that it is the quality of the relationship between client and therapist that makes the difference in the effectiveness of therapy. The relationship between a client and therapist can feel quite intimate but is markedly different from a friendship as the information sharing is about the client's perspective and experience. It is the counselor's role to assist you to evaluate how your experiences have shaped you and to find ways to help you come to terms with what has happened in your life.

Recovery Group

Where – Comfortable Pew (first house on Fulton Ave.) (meals-on-wheels house)

When – Thursdays, noon-time

Who – Everyone who's interested

Why - Long term success usually means a complete overhaul of one's life, involving new networks of support, new activities, new routines, and new ways of thinking.

The biggest risk factor for relapse is a sense of isolation and lack of support. It's hard to accomplish recovery on your own.

Objectives of the group:

- To provide a safe place for discussion and dialog
- To encourage information sharing and promote problem-solving,
- To strengthen motivation for clean and sober lifestyles
- To help create social networks of support
- To encourage new and healthier routines, activities, and ways of thinking.

Come and check us out. No one has to speak unless they choose to.

The Historic Globe Theatre

Sunday June 10: Never Cry Wolf

Doors Open 6:30      Show Time 7:00 – 8:45      rated PG
Starring Charles Martin Smith, Brian Dennehy, Zachary Ittimangnaq directed by Carroll Ballard

Drama Filmed in Atlin BC: Young, naive Canadian biologist Tyler is assigned by the government to travel to the isolated Canadian arctic wilderness and study why the area's caribou population is declining, believed to be due to wolf-pack attacks; amongst his orders to study them he is also given a gun and required to kill one wolf and examine its stomach contents. Tyler receives a baptism of fire into bush life with a trip by bush plane piloted by Rosie. After landing at the destination, Rosie leaves Tyler in the middle of a sub-zero frozen Arctic lake. Tyler is at a loss of what to do about his situation until he is rescued by a traveling Inuit named Ootek, who transports him and his gear off the ice and builds a shelter for him.
