Stix Together Heads for 2019 River Quest After Successful 2018 Race

The Whitehorse-based women's voyageur team Stix Together won their category in the recent Yukon River Quest, finished as the top Yukon women and met their fundraising goal of $10,000 for the Yukoners Cancer Care Fund, thanks to their first place prize money of $2300 and donations in support of their team. "We had a great race", said Cheryl Rivest, one of the team's founders who paddled again this year with her daughter Chantelle. "We finished in 19th place, won first place prize money to donate to the Yukoners' Cancer Care Fund, paddled injury free and had fun".

But this is not a group of women who intend to rest on their laurels. They have already entered the 2019 race, which opened for registrations on November 1.

Stix Together has been together for three years and raises money for the Yukoners' Cancer Care Fund. This fund, open to all Yukon and Atlin residents, provides one time grants to people experiencing financial stress while undergoing cancer treatment. "When we get tired, we remember who we are paddling for and it keeps us going", said Rivest. "Everyone in the boat is dedicated to supporting our community; it helps us work together as a team". The 2019 team will see most of their previous year's racers return.

In 2018 the team was surprised by the anonymous donation of a brand new Clipper Langley voyageur canoe and trailer, by someone the team calls "Casper", as in "Casper the Ghost". The donor, who wants to stay anonymous, apparently likes what the team is doing and wants to see them continue in the future. The team intends to honour that donation by continuing to fundraise long into the future and is already planning several fundraising activities for 2019. Donations to YCCF can be made at any time from the Stix Together website: www.stixtogether.ca

“Respect”

By Jeff Salmon

On Sunday morning I heard the muffled sounds of church bells in the distance and left home for the mile or so walk into town.
A number of others were also heading to town from all directions.
When someone was recognized, a nod and smile would follow and as we came closer together there would be inquiries as to each other’s welfare.

Directly in front of the church was a large glass-enclosed case with the day’s message;

Respect

All are Welcome
Today’s Sermon & Discussion;
Respect
Self - Respect
Respect for Family
Respect for Community

I’ve lived in this community for 25 years and know many of the people who live here. From my experience, we are a decent, caring group. However, today’s topic is important and could reveal new ways for each of us to demonstrate respect.

As I walked into church, this question occurred to me;
Who’s having this discussion with the world’s leaders?

ATLIN CABINS UPDATE!

With lots of renovations and still more to do, it has been a very busy spring, summer and fall for us down at the cabins. I would like to thank Kaja & Shirley for all the hard work in helping to sand the 6 cabins. It was a dusty job, but we tough gals got it done! Unfortunately, we were not able to winterize all the cabins for this winter. 5 of our cabins will be shut down for the months of November – February. We will only have 1 cabin running throughout the winter months. It is available for nightly and weekly bookings.

Thank you all for your support and watch out for our OPEN HOUSE in the spring!

Book Release & Reading
The Boreal Curmudgeon

Author Al Pope

A selection taken from the award winning Yukon News column Nordicity.

The Boreal Curmudgeon is a squint at Canada from the far top left, a frolic among the scattered leaves of the daily news, a romp through popular culture and much less popular politics. These literary gems each can be consumed in the time it takes to drink a cup of coffee, and mulled over on the second cup. Dealing with such wide-ranging subjects as urban chickens (in favour, generally), to the horrors of war (decrying) cats (opposed) breasts (non-objectifying) and political skullduggery (railing against) this book is a compendium of short, provocative essays, or as they say here in One Bucket Creek, an outhouse reader. Read one column, two, a hundred, wherever time and inclination lead. Who knows? You might release your inner curmudgeon.

Doors Open 6:30

Reading Starts 7:00

There, the penguins participate in a courtship that, if successful, results in the hatching of a chick. For the chick to survive, both parents must make multiple arduous journeys between the ocean and the breeding grounds over the ensuing months.*

Beautiful and tenacious reporter Sue gets more than just a story as the “wonder from down under” rocks the Big Apple to it's core.*
