Introduction

In 1973, the Yukon Native Brotherhood started the Yukon land claim process by presenting “Together Today for Our Children Tomorrow” proposal to the federal government. For the next twenty years the federal, territorial and the First Nations governments negotiated the initial “Agreements-in Principle” and “Framework Agreements” which laid the groundwork for the first edition of the “Umbrella Final Agreement” in 1990. Between 1990 and 1993 the first four First Nations Final and Self-Governments Agreements were finalized. In May 1993 the Umbrella Final Agreement, and the first four Final and Self-Government Agreements were signed in Whitehorse. Over the next thirteen years (from 1993 to 2006) eleven of the Yukon First Nations signed their Final and Self-Governments Agreements with the federal and territorial governments. Only three of the First Nations are now without Final and Self-Government Agreements.

The Yukon Land Claim Bibliography was initially drafted for the ‘Transcending Borders Symposium’ on the Alaska and Yukon land claims that was held in Whitehorse in November 2008. This edition of the bibliography consists of two parts—the first part is a selective author-title listing of titles produced by Yukon Native Brotherhood, Council for Yukon Indians, Council of Yukon First Nations, and the federal & territorial governments. Also included in the first part are assessments, evaluations, thesis, submissions, court decisions, etc. that have been published on the Yukon land claims.

The second part consists of three sections—1) Inventory of Agreements and Annuals Reports, 2) First Nations Agreements, and 3) Transboundary Agreements and Annual Reports that are held by the Yukon Archives Library. The first section includes drafts, interim texts, proofing editions, etc. and the final editions of the Agreements-in-Principle, Framework Agreements, Sub-Agreements and the Umbrella Final Agreement that were negotiated between the years 1980 to 1993. Also included is an inventory of the annual reports that are a requirement of the land claims process since 1996

The second section lists by First Nation the final, self-government and financial agreements that have been signed by the federal and territorial governments and each First Nation government which are held by the Yukon Archives Library. The third section is a listing of transboundary agreements and annual reports that are held by the Yukon Archives Library for the Gwich’in Tribal Council, Inuvialuit and the Sahtu Tribal Council.
